

HEROES WELCOME—New York turned out full force yesterday to greet 15 heroes of the war—10 British and five American. The 15 aces, bemedaled, but modest, started a nation-wide tour with a ride down Broadway and a whole day of ceremonies in New York. The group will tell the people how things are going at the various fronts. (Story on Page 13.)

Pool of Burning Oil No Snag for Navy

ATHENS, Ga., June 8.—(AP)—The four trunk-clad Navy officers emerged dripping from the flame-swept swimming pool, glanced ruefully at the sun—and complained of its blistering heat.

The officers were giving the final test to the most spectacular swimming lesson to be taught at the U. S. Navy's Pre-Flight Training school which opens at the University of Georgia Thursday—that men can swim through burning oil and gasoline and escape injury.

Lieutenant W. F. Foster, chief swimming coach at the school, and former instructor at Southern Methodist University, termed the test "extremely satisfactory."

"It looks dangerous," he said, "but there's nothing to it except knowing how, and we've proved to ourselves that we know how. Our theories worked out perfectly. Now if our cadets should at some future date be unfortunate enough to be blasted into an oil-covered

FIRE FISH—Who knows, some day these naval officers may be faced with the necessity of escaping a flame-covered sea. Just to be sure they know how without injury they deliberately jumped into a flame-covered swimming pool in Athens yesterday. The technique will be part of the Navy's preflight training at the University of Georgia.

UP FOR AIR—Part of the technique is to rise to the surface when the supply of air in the lungs has been consumed, beat the flames away, take a deep breath, and dive again for more underwater swimming. This Navy officer shows how it's done.

$50 MINIMUM PAY FOR ARMY, NAVY APPROVED BY CONGRESS

Rationing of Coffee, Tea and Cocoa Is Held 'Likely'

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—Rationing of coffee, tea and cocoa is "likely," a high war production official said today, but clothing rationing will not be necessary this year.

Joseph L. Weiner, deputy director of WPB's division of civilian supply, reported to a press conference that "some of our eating habits may have to be revised" because of shipping shortages and lend-lease demands, and that war-time problems will bring about far reaching changes in clothing, housing and transportation.

At the same time he gave assurance that Americans need fear nothing but the sacrifice of some comforts which other nations have not enjoyed even in times of peace.

Fish, Pork Limited.

Weiner is the operating chief of the civilian supply division because its director, Leon Henderson, has devoted his time to his job as price administrator. Summarized, Weiner's forecast of things to come was as follows:

Food—Rationing of coffee, tea and cocoa, in addition to sugar, is "likely." Bananas will be scarce because of the shipping shortage. Fish and pork supplies will be limited because of the hazards of coastal fishing operations and lend-lease shipments.

"It may be said that there is no danger that his country will lack a sufficient supply of staples or that the American diet will lack its vital elements."

More Cotton Clothing.

Clothing—"It appears now that rationing of clothing can be avoided this year," but WPB is not ready to make predictions beyond that time. More cotton must be worn. Wool may be forbidden entirely in some types of clothing. Woolen mills will have to blend other materials in their fabrics.

Shoes are a major worry but "we may be able to squeeze by." Stocks of shoes and clothing in commercial hands are at their highest point in history. "We don't see that people will have to be shabby, although in view of some of the other things at stake shabbiness is a minor item."

Housing—Permitting houses and rooms to remain vacant in war-congested areas will not be tolerated. Compulsory billeting of workers in private residences, as is done in England, can be avoided if accommodations are thrown open voluntarily.

Transportation—A widespread shortage of fuel oil caused by transportation difficulties "will be felt most keenly in eastern states." Persons who can convert oil-burning equipment to the use of coal should do so immediately. Because of power shortages "we will have to live in a somewhat darker world." Travel will be curtailed. "Mr. and Mrs. America will have to get acquainted with their neighbors, attend their neighborhood movies, accept a curtailed variety of goods and dispense with the desire for a change of scenery."

Bread, Flour Rationing Discontinued in Ire

DUBLIN, June 8.—(AP)—Discontinuation of bread and flour rationing, in force since last February, was announced tonight by Supply Minister Sean Lemass, who said stocks are now adequate to meet normal requirements.

At the same time he announced that clothes rationing would start tomorrow on the basis of 52 coupons a year for each person irrespective of age. A woman's full outfit requires 32 coupons, a man's 40. Shoes and hats are excepted.

U-Boat Action Reported Off African East Coast

LONDON, June 8.—(AP)—The Vichy radio reported tonight that U-boats had sunk three merchant ships off Portuguese Mozambique, on the African east coast opposite the French island of Madagascar which is now being occupied by British forces.

The latest submarine activity in that area was reported by the Japanese last week when they claimed—and the British denied—that their undersea craft stole into the Diego Suarez naval base on Madagascar and torpedoed a British battleship and a cruiser.

Axis 'Keeps in Practice' With Sweeps Over Malta

VALETTA, Malta, June 8.—(AP)—Apparently just to keep in practice, Axis fighters made two day light sweeps over Malta today after a night in which some bombs were dropped.

The burst of activity was nothing like the severe day and night assaults of the last two months when the Germans and Italians recklessly threw their airmen against the island without getting anywhere.

Peters Refuses Linder's Plea To Change Rule

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

Tom Linder came back up with a pained grin on his face late yesterday as the doorway of appeal was politely closed in his face while he argued his right to offer himself for the United States senate this fall without surrendering his present job of Georgia's commissioner of agriculture.

From his home in Manchester, James S. Peters, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, mailed a letter to Linder in answer to a protest he had received from the commissioner of agriculture.

Linder's answer from Chairman Peters read:

"This rule will apply only to those public officials who hold one office while running for another and I am sure you do not hold such sentiments, and for that reason and not otherwise, it would not affect you."

It's the Work That Counts, Admit Managers

By AL SHARP.

Woman, so proud of her trick battle, has been fighting a losing battle with office and personnel managers.

But not now.

The brunet stenographer can put on her best moonlight make-up, add a rose to her hair and walk in to work without having an eyebrow so much as twitch.

The days of dictating dress for offices is gone for the duration—probably forever, if women run true to form.

Everything except shorts is quite all right, according to facts and figures picked up amid speeches and interviews at the National Office Management Association at the Biltmore hotel.

In fact, shorts, like slacks, may break through the censorship if it gets much hotter. However, most of the office chiefs are preparing for a last stand on that battlefield.

"There was a day not too long ago when painted fingernails were taboo," remarked one office manager who was not eager to be quoted on his opinion, claiming it was typical of most. "Now no one notices nails, purple, red or otherwise."

"When there were other offices where the peek-a-boo blouse was called a mental hazard for male workers. That was before girls could go without stockings, remember?"

Look, he doesn't mean as much, either, the personnel expert pointed out. There was a time, he explained, when it was a good idea to hire beautiful, efficient youngsters who wouldn't be hard to look at during a long, strenuous day at the office.

"That's gone, too," said the gentleman with a faraway look in his eyes.

"The older woman and the homely girl are having their day," he went on. "We want workers—we have to have them."

"The war, of course," is the answer. Manpower of the nation's offices is scattered from Australia to Iceland and intervening points. Womanpower is getting short, too.

While the male office workers in the armed services are being better positions provided by huge contracts for war materials, women step in as replacements.

The turnover among female workers is greater, too.

Incidentally, the war has led to a more serious aspect. It is bringing about elimination of discrimination in wages—another major battlefield as far as women are concerned.

Companies are endeavoring to look to the future, too—when the boys come home. They want their personnel elastic enough to send married women back to their homes so that the fighting men may take over their former jobs.

It's a tough situation, all right—so tough that the office and personnel managers just don't give a darn how glamorous you look at work, Mary. It's the work that counts now.

CENSORSHIP NO BOTHER—Words are wasted on this picture. It was made by an Army photographer at an embarkation point when a soldier was saying farewell. That's all the Army could say about it since embarkation points and troop movements are military secrets. But that's enough.

Negro Fears Being Eaten on Duty in Africa

A new Army officer recently was sent from Atlanta to Jacksonville to enlist 100 Negroes for a special mission to Africa.

On reaching Jacksonville he called on a Negro well acquainted with the population and explained his predicament.

"Don't worry," the man reassured him. "We'll have 'em ready to go at tomorrow's meeting. You just be there at 2:30."

Sure enough, 300 with the draft on their necks were present.

The officer picked out a short fellow and asked him if he wanted to enlist. "Yessuh, boss, I want to be in the recreation department amusements."

He was signed up.

Later, the officer asked him how he thought he would like Africa.

"Africa?" yelled the startled Shorty, his eyes bulging like the eight ball you get behind on the pool table. "Boss, ah can't go to Africa. Dem folks eats us folks over theah."

Goal of 125,000 Planes Said Assured in 1943

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, predicted today that production of warplanes would exceed President Roosevelt's goal of 5,000 monthly by the end of this year.

Thomas, chairman of an appropriations subcommittee which handles War Department money bills, said he was informed that "amazing strides" had been made in the production of war materials.

While Thomas said he had no official information on plane production, he was satisfied that the output was nearing 5,000 monthly and that the President's goal of 125,000 planes would be reached next year.

Party Whip Post Is Given To Ramspeck

(Picture on Page 5.)

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Constitution Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, today was selected Democratic whip of the house to succeed Representative Pat Boland, of Pennsylvania, who died recently after holding the post for more than 10 years.

Ramspeck's selection for the important house post was announced by Representative McCormack, of Massachusetts, the majority leader, and roundly applauded by the chamber.

Majority Leader McCormack told the house that the Georgia congressman had been chosen by a conference of party wheelhorses because "he is one of the ablest and best liked members of the body."

"I am confident," said McCormack, "that he is well equipped to render valuable service."

As majority whip, it will be the duty of Representative Ramspeck to sit regularly with Speaker Rayburn and Majority Leader McCormack in framing the legislative policy. It will be his special responsibility to keep in close touch with the Democratic membership at all times and have them available for floor service when needed.

Under him will be 12 regional assistant whips functioning in a similar capacity in keeping in touch with members from the various geographical areas.

Representative Ramspeck, now chairman of the Civil Service Committee and the ranking majority member of the House Labor Committee, will thus have his position of responsibility greatly elevated.

The Atlanta congressman is serving his 13th year in the house, having first been elected in 1929 to fill the unexpired term of the late Representative Leslie J. Steel.

Throughout his years of service he has made many friends in the chamber and it is doubtful if any other member boasts his personal popularity.

Ramspeck is also one of the most efficient parliamentarians of the house. Seldom is he defeated on a piece of major legislation.

A consistent administration follower, he has supported all of the liberal measures adopted under the New Deal and has always been found on the side of the foreign policy questions proposed by the administration before our entry into the war.

The Georgia congressman's selection is regarded as one of the most popular choices that could have been made for the important office.

Motion Makes Bill Effective As of June 1

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—A $50-a-month minimum pay scale for the armed forces had the overwhelming approval of congress tonight and only the completion of technical parliamentary procedure remained to make this and other increases effective as of June 1.

The senate added its stamp of approval in a 58 to 20 vote instructing its members of a joint conference committee to accept house amendments to the military pay adjustment bill which would give Army buck privates and Navy apprentice seamen $50 monthly.

Senator Russell, Democrat, Georgia, voted to adopt the motion, while Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, cast his vote against the motion.

Accepts House Bill.

In the same action, the senate voted to raise the pay of first-class privates and second-class seamen to $54 and to make all of the increases for ranks up to and including second lieutenant retroactive to the first of this month.

This was accomplished by adopting a motion of Senator LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin, to return the pay bill to conference with instructions to accept the amendments previously written into the measure by the house on a vote of 332 to 28 and later sustained by a second vote of 332 to 31.

In effect, the senate thus rejected a compromise reached by the joint conference committee, setting the minimum pay at $46 and that of the second lowest rank at $52. Previously the senate had voted to make the pay $42 and $48 in these classes.

Senator Hill, Democrat, Alabama, said the conferees would meet tomorrow to carry out the senate's instructions and would report the revised bill to the senate when it meets again Thursday. Senate action then was expected to be followed by house approval of the measure, sending it to President Roosevelt for his consideration.

Speed Urged.

The senate wasted little time today in adopting the house-approved pay schedules after LaFollette told his colleagues that speedy action was needed to assure "simple justice" to the men in the armed forces.

Senator Austin, Republican, New Hampshire, urged adoption of the lower scale and Senator Gurney, Republican, South Dakota, observed that the "folks at home would not like to see congress go hog wild on this proposition."

Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, said he thought the $46 figure represented a "fair compromise" but Senator Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, asserted that the increased amount would serve as "a concrete manifestation of our appreciation of the sacrifices of the armed services."

The house meanwhile passed legislation under which dependents of service men would receive financial aid. Final details of the measure must be worked out in conference.

Priorities Rejected.

The house rejected the selective service law which would set up a priority system to determine the order in which men deferred for dependents could be called to the colors when the I-A rolls are exhausted. Members of the Military Committee said they had been given no opportunity to conduct hearings on this provision and could not urge its approval without knowing more about it.

Without debate, however, the house abandoned the lower benefit rates recommended by its Military Committee in favor of the higher senate scale.

Under this scale, "Class A" dependents of a service man would receive $100 a month.

Tarver Tells Travel-Users Take It Easy

Congressman Wants Department Heads To Justify Travel Bills.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—The letter "T" stands for Tarver and trouble if a government bureau wants more money for travel, telephone, telegraph or taxis.

Throughout hearings on the 1943 labor-federal security appropriations bill, the Georgia Democrat, Malcolm C. Tarver, together with his committee chairman colleague, Butler B. Hare, Democrat, South Carolina, made life a little annoying for those department heads who had to justify their demands for a little more money for their departments.

Tarver gave special attention to travel allotments, demanded facts and figures as to how this year's money was spent, and when he was not satisfied he told the witness so.

For instance, when Verne E. Zimmer, director of the Division of Labor Standards, had reviewed the accomplishments of the bureau on safety and health work in industrial plants, Tarver told him: "Pardon me for this statement; but witnesses before the subcommittee on appropriations should realize when an appropriation is sought, the burden is not upon the committee to furnish facts showing it is not necessary, but the burden is upon the people who seek the appropriation to show it is necessary and that the use of it in the past has accomplished real good."

"General statements that good has been accomplished do not weigh very much with me. I would like to know specific facts that sustain your contention that this appropriation has been of benefit."

And when John R. Demorest, chief, Division of Budgets and Accounts, was on the stand, Tarver suggested the division's travel allotment could be reduced.

Have suggested the idea with the suggestion maybe $10,000 or $15,000 could be saved.

Chattanooga Appearance Of Band Up To F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—The senate completed congressional action today on a bill authorizing the President to permit the United States Marine Corps band to play at the 52d reunion of the United Confederate Veterans in Chattanooga June 23-26.

The measure, which goes to the White House, also calls for a $5,432 appropriation to finance the trip.

While American forces are not as yet among the combatants, the nation is participating in almost every other way. American fighting planes and bombers streak across the skies in the hands of British, South African and Australian pilots and the few Americans in the RAF.

There are American trucks hauling supplies—canned vegetables from the eastern shore of Maryland, canned potatoes from Indiana and much other produce.

U. S. Tanks Save Day. And perhaps more important still there are those 28-ton medium tanks which the British enjoy calling the "General Grants"—the tanks which have saved the day more than once in the present onslaught of German armor against the British lines.

American military observers are in battle and technicians are right behind it, while in the Egyptian bases an American supply organization helps keep the material rolling ahead.

In the long supply columns moving continually to the front with the enormous requirements of this campaign almost every truck is an American truck. After the last campaign it was realized that one of the greatest British disadvantages was the lack of a tank recovery organization comparable to that of the Germans. This situation has been improved largely with American equipment.

Vehicles Hoisted Aboard. Each unit consists of a powerful 10-wheeled car with a trailer. Runners are let down from the rear of the trailer and a power winch pulls the disabled tank aboard. It then goes to a repair shop, getting over the bumpy desert at a speed as high as 20 miles an hour, or 30 miles over flat stretches.

The British are delighted with the Grant tanks, though they suffer from certain weaknesses. Members of one crack British Hussar regiment were particularly enthusiastic about the big machines.

"The General Grant is the answer to a lot of our problems in grappling with the Afrika Korps," one man said.

Gun "Big Enough."

"It has one thing we needed most in the last campaign—a gun big enough to knock out the heaviest tanks the Germans have here without any question. And its armor is as tough as you could want. One took a shell from a German 88-millimeter cannon at a little over 1,000 yards right on the nose and kept going."

Among those with the highest praise for the Grant tank were six members of one crew whose tank, running under terrific close range enemy fire, had a hole rent through the side runner and its periscope blown off. They suffered only one minor casualty and their tank already is in the workshop being prepared for battle.

"We owe our lives to the toughness of that tank," one man said.

Among the Grant's weak points in the opinion of these men who fight in them is the fact that its 77-millimeter gun is on the side rather than on a turret and therefore does not have a complete circular traverse but can shoot only ahead and to the side. This is especially important in cases where the tank becomes disabled, and must continue to fight as a pill-box.

Office Opened For Collection Of Entry Fees

Candidates Must Qualify With Miss Nina Cox, Executive Officer.

Gross receipts yesterday at the office of Miss Nina Cox, secretary of the State Democratic Committee, were $350.

Early yesterday morning Miss Cox moved into a vacant desk in the north office of the suite occupied by State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr.

Miss Cox will be there all this week to accept fees from anyone who wants to run for any office in the Democratic primary September 9.

The only customer yesterday was Judge Jule Felton, of the Georgia court of appeals, who qualified as a candidate for reelection. Judge Felton will complete his first six-year term at the end of this year.

Next week, Miss Cox will have her office at her home in Ashburn, for the benefit of the south Georgia candidates. She will stay there two weeks and then move back to the desk on the auditor's office for the week ending July 4, the last date candidate can qualify.

Some weeks ago, Attorney General Ellis Arnall sent his $500 fee to Miss Cox, qualifying him as a candidate in the race for Governor.

Former Congressman William D. Upshaw sent a $200 check to cover his fee for candidacy in the race against United States Senator Russell and possibly against Tom Linder, commissioner of agriculture, who has been talking about the probability of his opposing Russell's re-election.

Upshaw was $300 short, according to the prices set up at the meeting of the state committee last Saturday, so he will remain unqualified until he gets the other $300 into Miss Cox's hands.

Miss Cox announced her hours from 9:30 o'clock to noon and from 1:30 to 4:30 o'clock every afternoon.

nomination of public officials, and the rule has worked well in those states.

"This rule will apply only to those public officials who hold office when the committee was organized and I am sure you do not hold such sentiments, and for that reason and not otherwise, it would not affect you."

"I am sure you agree with me that the State Democratic Executive Committee gave serious consideration to all the rules and regulations, and approved only those rules and regulations which they thought best for the public interest of the party and the state as a whole and that it was not necessary to call them back now to reaffirm what they did, as I am sure they feel now as they did when they took this action."

For those reasons I see no necessity of calling the committee back into a meeting for the reasons outlined in your letter.

"With assurance of the highest regards, I am

"Sincerely,
"JAMES S. PETERS,"
Chairman, State Democratic Executive Committee."

Linder's protest Sunday against the hypothetical disqualification was accepted yesterday as "the first news that Linder really intended to run against Dick Russell."

Late yesterday afternoon, Linder was still protesting: "I haven't said I'm going to run."

To queries as to what his next move would be after receipt of the Peters letter, Linder said: "I'll follow up. I still think I can have that rule changed."

Linder hinted vaguely at possible legal steps to get the rule changed if he failed with a straight forward appeal to members of the committee. "I haven't had a chance even to think about the legal side of the matter, but if I can't make them take voluntary action, I'll keep on driving," he said.

Governor Talmadge refused to comment on the Linder affair yesterday.

"I'm in a good humor," the Governor said. "I'm not kicking about the rule. A representative group of Georgia Democrats laid down that rule."

And the Governor refused any further comment.

Over long distance telephone from his home in Manchester, Chairman Peters, who missed last Saturday's meeting of the committee because of illness, said: "I'm feeling much better. In fact, I expect to be in Atlanta Tuesday."

2 More Ships Reported Sunk By Submarines

Unofficial Toll in Battle of Atlantic Mounts to 254.

By The Associated Press.

Two more ships have gone down in the submarine war in the Atlantic, it was announced yesterday, bringing the unofficial total of merchant ships sunk to 254 since Pearl Harbor.

A Brazilian ship, the Alegrete, was torpedoed and sunk off South America, it was revealed today when 11 burned and injured survivors reached La Guaira, Venezuela.

Forty-six passengers and members of the crew were missing from the government-owned ship which was used to train officers for the Brazilian merchant marine as well as carry passengers and freight.

The Navy announced the loss of a small U. S. merchant vessel torpedoed in the Caribbean May 19 with the loss of three men. Thirty-four of the survivors escaped in two lifeboats and 30 hours later reached a Caribbean port.

First Lady Denies Joint Return Will Undermine Independence

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today pooh-poohed the idea that the proposal requiring married couples to file a joint income tax return would undermine a working wife's independence and said she approved the objective of such a return.

Should the President pool his $75,000 a year salary plus his income from private sources with his wife's earnings as columnist, writer and radio speaker, which in past years have run into the five figures, it is likely, Mrs. Roosevelt indicated, that Uncle Sam would benefit at a time when he needs the money for battleships and planes.

It is for that reason, Mrs. Roosevelt explained at her press conference, that she was in agreement with the principle of the joint income tax return—a proposal which has been strongly opposed by some women's groups and which was defeated by congress last August. The President beforehand had asked for its modification.

Mrs. Roosevelt called the joint return an effort to put higher taxes on people who can afford them. She explained that the government would gain more money because the family tax often is forced into a higher bracket by addition of the husband's and wife's incomes.

Asked what she thought about the drafting of boys of 18 and 19 years of age, Mrs. Roosevelt said the draft boards ought to be very careful to determine whether the boys were mature.

Otherwise, she said, she could see no difference between drafting them at the lower ages and at 21.

Battle of Midway Related by Injured 'Fish Eye' Witness

PEARL HARBOR, June 8.—(AP)—The first eyewitness account of the battle of Midway Island, detailing its most violent stages, was related today by a wounded American naval aviator who told of floating in the sea and watching a line of burning Japanese ships pass by.

He told of a thunderous—and highly successful—attack by American dive bombers and torpedo planes on Japanese aircraft carriers.

And from his "fish-eye" view, he watched the desperate circlings of Japanese Naval planes, unable to settle on their blazing and battered mother ships.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, revealed the story of the aviator, Ensign G. H. Gay, 25-year-old torpedo plane pilot, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gay, of Houston, Texas. Gay's wounds were not serious.

Drifted 10 Hours.
For 10 hours the pilot, careful to conceal himself from vengeful Japanese fliers by hiding his head under a cushion from his wrecked plane, drifted in the sea and watched the most amazing eyewitness stories of a major Naval engagement in the history of sea warfare.

Ensign Gay possessed what naval men called "a fish-eye view" of the attack on three Japanese carriers. His squadron met fierce enemy fighter plane opposition while driving home a torpedo assault on one of the larger carriers in the Japanese fleet early on June 4, opening day of the battle of Midway.

He was the only one of the crew of three to survive the crash of his ship. In the water he clung to his boat-bag and covered his head with the cushion.

What happened thereafter is a naval epic.

Taking off from his fleet carrier with his squadron, Gay approached the objective in mid-morning. Visibility was unlimited. Below lay three Japanese carriers, less than 10 miles extending between the first and last of the enemy ships, which were screened by a considerable force of cruisers and destroyers.

Dive Bombers Arrive.
Gay took stock of the astounding drama below him. "Two Kaga class carriers had been taken on their aircraft. Another smaller carrier lay between them, also receiving plane attacks, while the far-flung battle of Midway."

One of the larger carriers already burned fiercely, while enemy cruisers and destroyers wheeled around it waiting to rescue personnel.

Twenty minutes later the American dive bombers rocketed into view.

In the face of terrific anti-aircraft fire and enemy fighter attack, the American planes leveled for the assault. Gay heard his machinegunner say he had been hit. But the approach continued. Near the great Japanese carrier, Gay launched his projectile, then swung sharply over the target and sped astern as fast as his plane could carry him.

Riddled Controls Blasted.
Suddenly an explosive shell from a Zero fighter ripped through his torpedo plane's rudder controls. The detonation seared Gay's left leg. Almost simultaneously, a

Coolly, Gay brought his heavy plane into a stall and pancaked into the sea several miles astern of the enemy carrier.

His gunner was dead, and in the emergency landing his radioman was unable to pull free.

At 11 a. m., Gay, alone, watched the tail surfaces of his plane disappear. Now a bit of luck held with him. Out of the sinking wreckage floated the bag containing the deflated rubber life raft—and a black cushion on which the bombardier knelt while working.

Gay figured his chances quickly and accurately. There had been reports of Japanese strafing helplessly bailing out by parachute, and of machinegunning of men in life rafts as had floated clear of his own plane.

Bullet Falls Out.
Gay declined to offer himself as such a victim. He ducked under the cushion as enemy fighters swarmed overhead. Now knowing the extent of his wounds, he felt cautiously at his arm. The bullet, which apparently had struck him at the spent end of its trajectory, dropped out in his hand.

"For some reason," Gay recalled, "I put it in my mouth. Maybe I wanted a souvenir. Anyhow, I lost it before long."

He bandaged his injured leg under water.

Then from his fish-eye view at sea level Gay saw two other Japanese ships. He saw them squarely by United States bombs.

MILLION-DOLLAR BUSINESS—This is what W. W. Johnson, salesman for the Georgia Textile Machinery Company, of Statham, Ga., came to Atlanta to discuss a million-dollar transportation problem. Johnson has a B-3 card and he bought the $25 model-T Ford for business because it gives him 28 miles to the gallon of gas. His secretary, Mrs. C. D. Crowley, holds down the steering wheel while Johnson mans the starter.

soaked 'em in salt water for ten hours.

They headed back to the base. The surface of the battle area was littered with black Japanese life rafts, presumably used by the enemy when they abandoned ship. Great patches of oil floated on the debris-strewn sea, Gay said.

Gay reported that the one carrier of the Kaga class would be listed as a "certain loss," while the other two carriers were "probable." These were later pursued by American forces engaged in finishing off the crippled units of the Japanese fleet.

Gay's wounds are not serious. His father is a Texas oil operator. Gay was graduated from Texas A. & M. College as a civil and mechanical engineer. He took his naval flight training at Jacksonville and Miami, Fla. In the Navy are many Texans, who, like Ensign Gay, are tough and full of fight.

$6 Whiskey Tax Is Voted by House Group
Levy Would Be Raised From $4 Under Proposal.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—An increase from $4 to $6 a gallon in the tax on whiskey and other distilled spirits was approved tentatively by the House Ways and Means Committee today.

The committee also agreed to raise the tax on beer from $6 to $7 a barrel and will vote tomorrow on a series of proposed jumps in the levies on wines.

The liquor tax increase was exactly what Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau recommended last March and which he said then would produce $279,700,000. But the Treasury had asked that the beer tax be raised to $8 a barrel in order to produce $117,100,000 in new revenue. No estimate was available immediately of the returns from a $7 tax.

Members said that the committee planned to take up in order of the administration's excise tax proposals, which it was estimated would raise $1,340,000,000, and might finish that work by the weekend.

Then, they predicted, the stage would be set for a showdown on the question of whether a sales tax would be approved. One of them explained the situation this way:

"When we get all through with the excise taxes, we will see how much we will have raised; then we will have to decide whether we will let it go at that, or to a sales tax to make up the difference."

The Treasury's revised tax goal is $8,700,000,000. The committee has approved levies estimated to produce about $5,800,000,000.

Other recommendations of the Treasury call for increased taxes on photographic apparatus, transportation by pipe line, communications, gasoline, lubricating oil, transportation, carbonated drinks, cigars, cigarettes and smoking tobacco.

Elevator Operators Here Quit As Women Invade Their Ranks

Women to take over men's jobs after the men have gone to the Army may be an all right idea, but a group of Candler building and Forsyth building girl elevator operators who timed their arrival before the boys had gone, are getting a downright unfriendly reception.

They're being struck against. Only the boys, represented by W. Fred Orr, president and business agent of Local No. 231, Building Service Employees' International, A. F. of L., don't call it that.

They call it "quitting work" and they don't smile—least of all at their girl successors—when they say it.

"We haven't struck," said Orr yesterday, passing a picket sign to a relief man who came to take his place in front of the Forsyth building, "we just walked out. And we're staying out till we've won."

Balks at Smile.
The idea of going in the building and smiling in a friendly manner at the girls, most of whom are pretty young things struggling unsuccessfully to bring the elevators to a three-point landing, may not have been so obnoxious to most of the pickets, but Orr wouldn't have it—even for a picture.

"It's against the principle of the whole thing," he said ominously. "Don't smile at 'em."

As for the girls, they might have willingly smiled at the picketing lads—but the management wouldn't hear of it.

"No pictures, please. We don't want any publicity," said one of the building managers.

Meanwhile, occupants of the 17-floor Candler building, one-third of which is given over to government officials, and the smaller Forsyth building, pondered the issues involved and tried uneasily to choose between crossing the picket line to ride up in dubious style or to climb the stairs. Some climbed but got little satisfaction out of it because the pickets didn't know the difference.

Issues Involved.
Meanwhile, the issues involved boiled down to Orr's contention that Asa G. Candler, Inc., refused to recognize the union as the bar-posed "because it provides practically for a closed shop." He said four operators were striking in the two buildings but that 16 were still working.

Roosevelt To Give Public 'the Facts' On Rubber and Gas

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—A committee of congressmen learned today that President Roosevelt was going to "give the people some facts and reasons" on the rubber shortage and the gasoline situation as soon as he had assembled the facts himself.

Gas Chiselers Face Disaster Under New Plan

Operation of Coupon System Explained by Government.

A filling station operator who engages in "black market" activities or favors his best customers with extra gasoline will merely be forcing himself out of business under the permanent gasoline rationing program being perfected by the Office of Price Administration.

OPA regional enforcement authorities here pointed out yesterday that with the coupon system, the filling station operator will find himself without sufficient coupons to give to his supplier to replenish his stocks. Incidentally, he will also be rendering himself liable to a year's imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

Here is the way the system will affect service stations. The day before rationing becomes effective the station operators will take an inventory of all his gasoline storage capacity. The following day he will go down to his local rationing board and file an affidavit telling exactly how much gasoline he had in his storage tanks. The local board will then issue the station operator inventory coupons equal to the difference between the amount of gasoline in his tanks at the time of inventory and the full capacity of the tanks.

Take the case of a small station which may have one 500-gallon tank. At the time of inventory, the operator finds he has 200 gallons in the tank. When he registers with his local board, he will be entitled to obtain coupons which have an exchange value worth 300 gallons of gasoline.

From then on, the amount of coupons in the hands of any individual station operator will depend upon his sales.

At the time of inventory, the regulations and obtains a coupon for every gallon of gasoline he dispenses, he will always have coupons whose exchange value added to the amount of gasoline actually in his storage tanks will be equal to the full capacity of the tanks.

Each dealer will also be required to maintain a record showing the quantity of gasoline received at the time of each purchase, the name of the supplier from whom he made the purchase and the date of the purchase.

At the time of delivery, the station operator will turn over to his supplier consumer coupons, inventory coupons and "acknowledgments of receipt of gasoline" exactly equal to the total gallons delivered to his station.

The "acknowledgments of receipt of gasoline" are special requisition forms which are being prepared for the use of members of the armed forces only. They will enable a station operator to get back from his supplier the amount of gasoline he may have sold to a member of the armed forces driving an official service vehicle.

And until Mr. Roosevelt makes his report, presumably in another fireside chat to the nation by radio, Representative Kleberg, Democrat, Texas, said the President thought that "we should not get too excited or worried."

Kleberg is chairman of a committee of house members who want nationwide rationing of gasoline deferred until it is demonstrated that such a step is essential to the war effort. Kleberg and two members, Representative Lea, Democrat, California, and Holmes, Republican, Massachusetts, talked the question over with the President, who has hinted that national rationing of motor fuel may be undertaken to conserve tires.

Rubber Survey. Meanwhile Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, said that a survey of scrap rubber resources, taking about a month, probably would be undertaken before any decision is made on the nationwide gasoline rationing.

Senators Russell, Democrat, Georgia, and Maybank, Democrat, South Carolina, introduced legislation directing that the Secretary of the Treasury reimburse states for revenue lost due to rationing. The secretary would determine the amount. Most rationed states have consequently their treasuries have suffered from the restricted sales.

East coast motorists will get an average basic ration of nearly four gallons of gasoline a week under the regular coupon-book system starting next month, Joel Dean, OPA fuel rationing administrator, said.

Under the present temporary program, nonessential drivers are allowed about three gallons weekly.

Dean told reporters the additional ration would be permitted because of tighter controls made possible under the new plan. Considerably fewer "B" coupons will be issued, Dean explained, since motorists will be required to prove need for supplemental allowances.

They must show to the satisfaction of local rationing boards that use of their cars is required in their businesses, that they have formed transportation "pools" of not less than four persons, or that no other means of transportation is available to get them to and from work.

The east coast plan, expected to serve as a model if nationwide rationing is instituted, is based on an allowance of 2,880 miles of driving a year for the average "nonessential" motorist.

Basic "A" books will be issued to every passenger-car driver who registers. These will contain 48 coupons, each good for four gallons of gasoline.

The "B" books, containing 16 coupons, will be issued on a "need" basis and will be used in addition to the basic "A" book. Each "B" book, however, will be dated, depending upon the local rationing board's estimate of the applicant's gasoline requirements. Thus, one "B" book could be used only for three months, while another would be good for a year.

Tailored Books. A third "C" book, containing 96 coupons, likewise will be "tailored" to fit absolute requirements. On the basis of the motorist's proved mileage, the rationing board will issue coupons for as many as necessary to cut the "C" book down to the driver's needs.

All commercial vehicles, including trucks, taxicabs, buses and government-operated automobiles, will receive "S" books—likewise "tailored" to fit.

All "C" books will be reviewed and reissued every three months; "S" books will be reviewed and reissued every four months.

PACIFIC WAR AT HALF-YEAR POINT.—With a Japanese fleet reported in flight after an unsuccessful smash at Midway, but expected to regroup for another drive at the defense arcs based on Dutch Harbor, Midway and Pearl Harbor, this was the picture yesterday. The diagonally-shaded area shows what Japan held when it stabbed at Pearl Harbor last December 7. The dotted area shows how the Japs overran territory to the south. The dotted wedges show how the Japs, by plane or submarine, penetrated defense lines to hit at Dutch Harbor, Pearl Harbor, the California coast, Australia and Ceylon. On the Allied side are defense of the India-Burma border and the forked lightning attacks of Jimmy Doolittle and his fliers on Tokyo, naval forces against Marcus Island, the Gilbert and Marshall Islands and continued pounding of the Solomons, Timor and Rangoon. The Japs were turned back from northeast Australia, although Nip subs have shelled Sydney and Newcastle, on southeast coast.

Gas Rationing 'Fumble' Laid To Bureaucrats

South Carolina Governor Says East Victim of Discrimination.

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 8.—(AP)—Governor R. M. Jeffries said today "The great majority of the people have absolutely no confidence in the bureaucrats who have so badly 'fumbled' the gasoline rationing program, but the people are looking to the governor to bring about a proper solution."

In a letter requested by Senator Maybank, Democrat, South Carolina, to be presented to a senate committee studying the gasoline rationing program, Jeffries expressed in full his views on rationing.

Charging that the eastern states which were put under gasoline rationing had been discriminated against, the Governor said, "If every community should be required to share its sufficiency or surplus of transportation equipment, then the pooling or co-operative use of all equipment would cause a minimum interference with the citizens in securing the commodity, which minimum interference would apply to every citizen alike."

Marriage License Sale Shows Gain in Lowdowns

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. VALDOSTA, Ga., June 8.—War activities and the location here of Moody field gave a big hike to the business of Dan Cupid, according to the records in the office of T. N. Holcombe, ordinary of Lowdowns county.

Marriage license sales for the first five months in 1942 show an increase of 275 per cent, according to Judge Holcombe. The graduating classes at Moody Field has furnished a large percentage of the increase. When the cadets have received their commissions, apparently, it carries in many cases the answer to the question "Will you?"

For the first five months of 1941 there were 134 licenses sold and for the corresponding period of this year the sales went to 243.

Canines and Friends Protest Describing Hitler as a Dog

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—More than 20,000 dogs will take part next week in don't-call-Nazis-dogs-because-dogs-are-nice week.

H. N. Blair, official of the Tailwagger Club, said the week was set aside because the club was sick and tired of the abuse being heaped upon nice dogs whenever a Nazi was labeled a dog by a patriotic American. He said that "Falla," President Roosevelt's Scottie, was included on the club's membership list.

Said Kate Smith, radio singer and honorary chairman of the Tailwaggers: "The time has come to show American dogs—many of which are on war duty—the proper respect and not compare them with Hitler and his kind."

But the cat won't coax. "It's a beautiful cat," Mrs. Hill said. "It would be a lot prettier on the ground, the neighborhood agreed."

At his own option, a service man could make allotments to "Class B" dependents, such as parents, brothers or sisters. If he had no "Class A" dependents, his own allotment would be $22, increased $15 by the government for one parent, $25 for two parents, and $5 for each brother or sister. However, if the service man had both "Class A" and "Class B" dependents, only $5 would be deducted from his pay for the latter, making his total deduction $27 monthly.

Rommel Halted In New Attack West of Tobruk

Devastating Artillery Fire Meets Axis Tanks in Libya.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 8.—(AP)—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's main armored column was reported today to have been halted by devastating artillery fire in a new assault on the British Libyan stronghold at Knightsbridge.

This was the second time in two days that Rommel had attempted to break through toward Tobruk, 15 miles to the northeast. He threw in strong infantry forces, followed by tanks, but the British artillery fire broke up the drive before it gained any ground.

The tank column was forced to retire before it got within range of the Allied forces. Axis forces had previously failed in violent attacks on Knightsbridge both Saturday and Sunday.

Free French Bolstered. Meanwhile, Free French forces repulsed another German attack at Bir Hacheim, where German-Italian columns have been trying to break through for the past five days.

The Free French, who are supported by Indian troops, were said to have had their munitions supplied replenished, making their position appear secure for the moment.

German supply columns moving northeast from the gap in the British mine field near Ain el Gazala have been constantly under attack by Allied mechanized columns and RAF bomber and fighter squadrons.

Nazi Reinforced. Scattered tank skirmishes were reported between German concentrations near Knightsbridge and the Ain el Gazala line.

Rommel's forces, however, were said by military quarters to have received reinforcements through the gap in the mine field despite the heavy British pounding.

The British were believed to be sparing for a knockout blow at Axis troops west of Knightsbridge. Informers sources pointed out that Lieutenant General Neil M. Ritchie's strategy seemed to be to compress the Germans into a semicircle with the mine field gap at their backs, then to pounce on them with all his strength and at the same time cut their supply line at the rear.

7 Reported Executed For Treason in Berlin

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—The British radio broadcast a Stockholm report tonight that seven Germans were executed in Berlin last Friday for high treason. The broadcast was heard here by CBS.

SEEKS HOUSE POST.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Bernice Brown McCullar, wife of the late Judge C. B. McCullar, has qualified as a candidate for the state house of representatives. She is a member of the faculty at Georgia State College for Women. Mrs. McCullar will oppose Joseph A. Moore.

Soviets Beat Off Repeated Assaults On Sevastopol

MOSCOW, Tuesday, June 9.—(AP)—Soviet troops have beaten off continuing Nazi attacks on Sevastopol for the fourth straight day and inflicted heavy losses on the Germans, the Russians announced early today.

Garrisoned by some of the toughest veterans of the Red army and navy, the Crimean seaport has held against recurring Nazi assaults for seven months despite the Germans' seizure of the remainder of the peninsula.

The midnight communique said "in the Sevastopol sector stubborn fighting continues. Our troops are successfully repulsing enemy attacks, and inflicting heavy losses."

No essential changes occurred elsewhere in Russia, but a supplementary communique said Red troops forced a river crossing in the Kalinin sector northwest of Moscow and drove the Germans out of two populated places.

Nazi Superior in Air. The Red air force also destroyed or damaged 50 German trucks with troops and supplies, sank three enemy patrol ships and one cutter, and damaged another patrol ship and a transport vessel during Sunday's operations, this communique said.

(The BBC's Moscow correspondent said that the Nazis held the air advantage on the Sevastopol front because of limited air field facilities in the besieged area held by the Russians.)

(But he said in a relayed report heard by CBS that the Russians had a big reservoir of food and munitions cached underground and that if the German attack continues "it will cost the Germans an enormous price.")

Dispatches from the Black sea port said he Germans were hurling clouds of airplanes and waves of infantrymen against the Russians.

At the opposite pole of the battlefield, more than 1,000 miles to the north, the Russians reported the only real offensive thrust of the day, an assault by the Leningrad army which a communique said dealt "a heavy blow" to the Germans.

Bridgehead Assaulted. A single engagement in this fight was said to have cost the Germans more than 500 killed. Four hundred others were reported wiped out on the long contested battlefield west of Kalinin.

(The German high command said the Russian attack was a violent assault upon a strongly defended bridgehead in the Volkhov region south of Leningrad.)

The new fight for the Crimean bastion of Sevastopol flared up last Friday after an intensive preliminary mass bombing of the Soviet Black sea naval base there.

Latest reports from the base said the air attacks failed to weaken the Russian stand, and the subsequent German land assaults were being repulsed by the army's artillery and the guns of Russian warships.

The intensity of the continued German aerial attack against Sevastopol was indicated in a week-end summary listing 528 German planes destroyed with a loss of 151 Russian planes.

Florida Canal, Pipe Line Due Before House

Measure To Come Up Again Shortly, Says Hendricks.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—Representative Hendricks, Democrat, Florida, predicted today the bill for construction of a pipe line and barge canal across Florida would come before the house again shortly under parliamentary rules which would permit amendment of the measure.

By a 121-to-85 vote the bill was denied consideration under a suspension of house rules last week which limited debate and forbade amendments.

"The bill has a good chance of passing if it comes up under the regular rules," Hendricks said.

A Senate Commerce Subcommittee meanwhile heard testimony from Thomas A. Johnson, Florida petroleum co-operator, on possibilities of using the state's privately owned fleet of barges for gasoline and fuel oil transportation.

During the hearing it was testified that two companies have submitted applications to build eight pipe lines from Port St. Joe to Jacksonville, Fla., each to cost about $3,000,000. The money would be supplied under the plan by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Argentina Protesting Torpedoing of Victoria

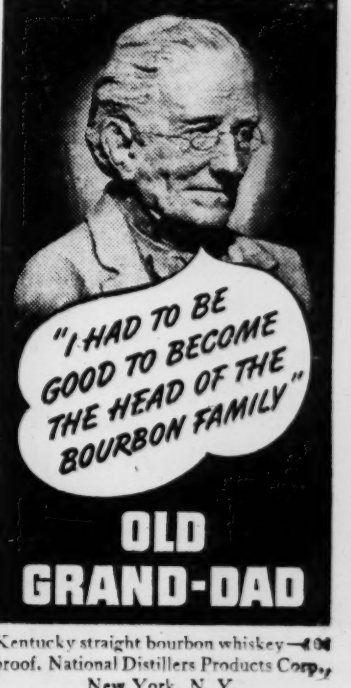

BUENOS AIRES, June 8.—(AP)—Neutral Argentina is protesting to Germany and Italy for the torpedoing of the Argentine tanker Victoria in American waters, it was learned on high authority today.

The ship was able to reach an eastern United States port after the attack and Argentine naval officers made an exhaustive study of the cause of damage.

Argentina and Chile are the only American nations maintaining relations with the Axis. The attack on the Victoria was the first on an Argentine vessel since the United States entered the war.

It will be the second such protest by Argentina since the war started. The first, to Germany, alone, followed the sinking of the Argentine freighter Uruguay off the coast of Spain in 1940. Germany's reply never was published.

Overtime Figured On Regular Pay, Not Minimum—Court

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today that the wage-hour law requirement of time-and-a-half pay for overtime beyond 40 hours a week meant 150 per cent of an employee's regular pay rate, not 150 per cent of the act's minimum pay provisions. Thus no matter how far a worker's regular pay exceeded the minimum, he still would be entitled to time-and-a-half pay for overtime.

Hull Condemns Nazi Campaign Against Church

Depravity of Hitler's Program Said Revealed in Protest.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull today condemned Hitler's anti-church campaign in Germany, saying that recently it led to the reading in every Catholic church of a pastoral letter of protest from the Catholic bishops.

He said the protest served to reveal the true depth of depravity of Hitler's program of world domination, which he said was founded on crime, cruelty, torture and treachery.

Hull remarked that it was clear from the pastoral letter that Hitler would blot out every vestige of Christianity if he succeeded in his plans.

The Secretary expressed gratification over Mexico's action in proclaiming herself one of the United Nations at war with the Axis.

Speaking of the great naval battle at Midway, Hull said there had been many victories gained over forces of destruction but never a more righteous victory than that won by United States forces over the most destructive forces encountered in this nation's history.

Brian Bell, Bureau Chief Of AP, Dies

Coronary Thrombosis Fatal to Former Atlanta Newsmen.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—The death of Brian Bell, chief of the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press, brought grief today to the national capital, and to thousands who had known him in his coast-to-coast career of newspaper writing.

The 52-year-old newspaperman died of a coronary thrombosis at 5:40 a. m., at his home in near-by Arlington, Va. He had been stricken first a little more than 12 hours earlier while watching a Washington-Detroit baseball game—a favorite relaxation for him, a former sports writer.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt were among the first to express shock and grief. And at the capitol Representative Priest, Democrat-Tennessee, delivered a eulogy in the house, telling his colleagues that "the passing of a man like Brian Bell in a day when the world badly needs true and tried journalists even as it needs stalwart statesmen is indeed a grievous loss." Similarly, Senator Maybank, Democrat, South Carolina, called the attention of the senate to the loss of "a distinguished South Carolinian."

Many Friends.

There were tributes, too, from leading sports figures and others, for Bell's expansive personality and wide interests brought him friendly relations in all walks of life during 30-odd years as reporter and writer.

His newspaper career really began when he was a boy in short pants in his home town of Gaffney, S. C. He became correspondent then for the State, Columbia, S. C., morning newspaper.

After his education at Presbyterian College of South Carolina, Davidson College, and Washington and Lee University, he was on the staff of the State for 15 years, leaving it in 1924 to go with the Associated Press in its Atlanta bureau.

Funeral Tomorrow.

An aunt of Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Harry A. Etheridge, lives in Atlanta (413 Sixth street) and Bell made his home with her for a time when he first joined the AP staff.

Thereafter he was successively head of the New Orleans bureau of the Associated Press, a writer on the New York staff, and head of the Los Angeles and San Francisco bureaus. He became chief of the Washington bureau in January, 1939.

Bell was married in 1917 to Miss Alberta Harris, of Gaffney. They have three children, Mrs. J. William Magee, of Washington, and Brian Jr., 17.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday in St. Mary's Episcopal church, Arlington. Burial will be in Columbia Gardens, Arlington.

His versatility as a writer and reporter led to his being assigned to many varied types of stories during his Associated Press career.

He covered many of the matches of Bobby Jones and was a close friend of the golfer as he was also of Gene Sarazen, Ty Cobb and other sports celebrities of the years when he was writing sports news in New York and on the west coast.

Poison Gas Use By Japs Observed

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—(AP)—Maurice Liu, taking over as chancellor at the Chinese consulate, said today the Japanese have been using poison gas against his countrymen and that he had seen the results.

Liu came here from a six-month tour of Chinese battlefronts. "As long ago as last October I saw Chinese gas casualties in Chekiang hospital," he declared. "It was mustard gas and the victims were blistered from head to foot."

Japs Deny Use Of Poison Gas

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), June 8.—(AP)—Tomokazu Hori, official Japanese spokesman, denied today that the Japanese were using poison gas against the Chinese.

"Japan has never used poison gas so far and does not intend to unless international laws are violated by the enemy," Hori said.

'Lull' Now Ended, Forde Broadcasts

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—Australian War Minister Francis Forde, in a broadcast heard here today, said the shelling of Sydney and Newcastle means "the lull in naval operations following the Coral Sea battle is ended and the Japanese are undoubtedly preparing another blow."

"We must be prepared to meet it with high resolve, courage and determination," he added.

His remarks were relayed by BBC and recorded here by CBS.

Supreme Court Approves Curb On Free Speech

Three Cities Upheld in License Fees on 'Peddlers.'

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—The exercise of free speech, press and religion may be limited by legislative bodies, the supreme court held today, "to times, places and methods... not at odds with the preservation of peace and good order."

This decision, declaring that the "rights of which our constitution speaks... are not absolutes to be exercised independently of other cherished privileges, protected by the same organic instrument," was delivered in upholding the right of three cities to impose license fees on members of Jehovah's Witnesses who distributed religious literature for which they sought contributions.

It was a 5-to-4 decision which impelled Chief Justice Stone and Justice Murphy to vigorous dissenting opinions, in which Justices Black and Douglas joined.

The latter three, moreover, took occasion to reverse their stand in the celebrated 1940 case which upheld a Pennsylvania law requiring school children to pledge allegiance to the American flag. This could in no way alter the decision, however, for it was an 8-to-1 vote with Stone the only dissenter.

Today's decision involved these municipal license taxes which Jehovah's witnesses opposed as violating the freedom of speech, press and religion. A $5 fee for transient book agents at Opelika, Ala.; a Fort Smith, Ark., peddler's license of $2.50 a day, $10 a week or $25 a month, and a quarterly license fee of $25 for transient merchants at Casa Grande, Ariz.

Theater Employee Robbed of $205

A small man wearing a pair of dark goggles yesterday held up and robbed 17-year-old Edgar Biford, employee of the Fox theater, on his way to the bank with $205 of the theater's funds, according to a report made to police. The robbery occurred near Peachtree street and Ponce de Leon avenue, it was said.

Biford described the bandit as young, with dark hair, and wearing brown trousers. He was carrying a nickel-plated automatic, Biford said.

After obtaining the money, the hold-up fled west down Ponce de Leon on foot, according to Biford.

OPA Will Put Ceiling On Alcohol Anti-Freeze

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration will fix a price ceiling on alcohol anti-freezes by the middle of this month at about 35 cents a quart for high-production-cost anti-freeze and about 25 cents a quart for a low-production-cost fluid.

These retail ceilings will be accompanied by manufacturers' price ceilings at about 10 cents a gallon under prices now charged by some manufacturers. "This preliminary announcement is being made to protect buyers against paying excessive prices," OPA said.

515-Pound Boy Is School Student

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 8.—(AP)—The Savannah Vocational School has the largest student body in the state—all in one person—Henry Carter Lindsey, 17-year-old lad who weighs 515 pounds.

Henry is quite a boy but he has 6 feet 4 inches of height to carry the extra poundage.

The school also could claim the smallest student body in the person of 14-year-old Nick Chiboucas, who weighs but 83 1/2 pounds and stands 4 feet 7 1/2 inches high.

Henry moved here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lindsey, from Norfolk, Va., last year. He is now in the process of being measured for a new suit to wear at the wedding of a brother, William Lindsey, in Norfolk June 15.

The hefty schoolboy said he enjoyed "pretty good" health. Asked if he had ever taken any treatment to reduce his weight, he said:

"Shucks, I've taken so many shots, my arm was sore all over from being stuck with the needle."

GOOD BYE, Mister Chips

★ It was a beautiful night that early April evening somewhere on the southern coast of England... a beautiful night for a bombing.

Mary Anne's mother had called her to bed. "Yes, mommy," the child called back, "just as soon as I get Mister Chips. I left him by the swing."

Mary Anne never quite reached the rag doll she had affectionately christened Mister Chips. High overhead a cruel, thin finger touched a button that started half a ton of death and destruction on its swift journey toward the earth.

The tired young interne in the ambulance looked down at the limp little body in his arms and cursed.

It didn't matter to Mary Anne. Nothing could matter to her now... not even Mister Chips.

★ It can't happen here?... Oh, yes it can!... And it may, in spite of anything we can do to prevent it.

But the sooner we make up our minds to really get down to brass tacks about the menace over there the sooner we'll lessen the danger of horror over here.

What can we do?... One very important and simple thing we can all do is to Buy War Bonds.

Buy, buy, buy—buy until it hurts, really hurts in the sacrifice of those big and little comforts which Uncle Sam's sons are fighting to preserve for us!

Don't you think it's worth the sacrifice? Of course you do!

No matter how many War Bonds or Stamps you've bought—plan now—today—on buying more... a lot more!!!

Midway Repercussions

As important as the physical victory over the Japanese fleet at Midway is the psychological victory.

The repercussions of this victory will be important in Java where Dutch troops still are fighting. It will be felt in the Philippines where there are a few American and native troops in the mountains together still resisting.

It will be felt in China and in all Asia where Japan seeks to win 800,000,000 persons to her sphere of influence. It is idle for the democracies to think China will keep fighting on and on without help and supplies merely because we need her. If Japan could have gone on showing victory after victory she would have gained support in China.

That is why victories are so important now in the field of war and psychology.

Meanwhile, there comes trickling through an entirely unconfirmed report that our defenses at Dutch Harbor were in an excellent state of readiness and that the results were good. If that be true it is entirely possible the repulse there had a definite bearing on the battle at Midway.

The war is on so vast a scale that it is difficult to put together. It is a monster jigsaw puzzle and putting it together blindfolded, so to speak by lack of complete information, is difficult.

Meanwhile, the nation feels better.

And so, we may assume, so do the loyal peoples in the Philippines, in Java, in China and in all the Dutch East Indies.

And so, we may assume, do all the peoples of the conquered nations of Europe, where hope has been almost dead.

Southern Railway

Proceedings of the forty-ninth annual meeting of the stockholders of the Southern Railway have been published.

They reveal, most sharply, the reasons why this railroad has been so successful in its long career of service and why it and its officers are held in high esteem by the stockholders.

The road is in a sound financial condition and is receiving a satisfactory share of the increased revenue which the war has brought to all railroads.

Yet the Southern is not paying a dividend this year and because it isn't it receives the indorsement and applause of its owners.

The Southern long has pursued the sound policy that debt must be amortized and that provision, in times of plenty, must be made to take care of the future. Viewing the increased wages, increased costs of operation and equipment, and viewing the tax increases of this year and proposed increases for next, the officers declared they believed it best to pass up a dividend and build up the road's resources to assure a sound basis for the post-war period. Experience has shown that stock of reorganized roads is worth nil.

The attitude of the stockholders was summed up in a statement by Miss Willie Cleage, of Knoxville, Tenn., who said to the chairman:

"There never was a woman who didn't need and want dividends, but I don't and I am sure what you are doing is exactly right."

The Southern pledged its every effort to do the job of transporting passengers and the men and the materials of war.

The meeting of the Southern, held in Richmond, was in its development, explanation of why it always had been so sound and so fine a company.

Mr. Brian Bell

Brian Bell, chief of the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press, died Monday at his home in Arlington, Va., after the second of two heart attacks.

He was a native of South Carolina. He had worked in Atlanta and almost every section of the United States, in the service of the Associated Press. His last appearance in Georgia was as guest speaker at the Georgia Newspaper Institute in Athens last February. His greatest achievement in his profession was his last one—the job in Washington.

He was a quiet, personable person known and loved by many, many people. Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, gave him the proper epitaph when he said, "When one thinks first of Brian Bell on thinks first of a great human being."

—VICTORY IS WORTH OUR ALL—

The War and Us

War has begun to affect our lives at home in unsuspected ways. Not violently, authoritatively, as it does the lives of the men in uniform, but nevertheless it is felt in smaller ways.

Book store people say that fiction reading is off. The heavier demand is for books about real persons, books about ideas, and books containing information. There is reported, for instance, a strong demand for books on grammar as young women begin to think about those available secretarial jobs. Fiction is heavily off.

This is contrary to the accepted idea which is that people want "escape" books to let them forget the war. This has been true in other wars. But in this one, perhaps because the sounds of battle and the dying is so far away as to seem unreal, the people seem to be trying to get closer to the war. This really is encouraging. It is good to find a demand for Major Alexander de Seversky's book on air power and for various other books on modern warfare.

There is a great demand for books on gardening and for home affairs such as sewing and homemaking. More cook books are being sold. Men are putting up workshops in garages and in basements and buying books on how to use tools.

The department store people say that their customers are buying. Business holds up well. But they are buying differently. There are more play suits being sold, for wear around gardens and at home. There are more garden things being sold, more slacks, more gloves. There is buying for new purposes. They say, too, that their customers talk about the new law concerning payment of bills and they like the idea.

The movie people say that their business is holding up well. For a while they thought that community movies would do the big business with the larger down-town houses suffering. But not so. Street cars and buses discharge the crowds which used to come in automobiles and the automobile itself, as movie transportation, has not yet disappeared.

Newspapers know that more people are reading newspapers than ever before in the history of America and that newspapers are more thoroughly read than ever before.

Ministers and psychologists say that divorces among those who stay at home likely will lessen. By staying at home and getting really to know one another in a time requiring some sacrifice, they will get along better. Divorces from the swiftly growing number of hasty war marriages will, alas, be many.

So does war affect us in small ways, in our books, our movies, our homes and our thinking.

Dr. Fuller Accepts

All Atlanta will learn with regret that Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist church, has made the decision to resign his ministry and bow to the request of his church that he become president of the Southern Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky.

Atlanta will understand, however, because Dr. Fuller has taught the city that he always does what he conceives to be his duty. It was this sense of duty which caused him to accept the position unanimously voted him by the recent Southern Baptist convention.

For 14 years Dr. Fuller has preached and served in Atlanta. He has been a valuable citizen and a successful minister. He is a worker who never tires and as such he has made for himself a place in the city and in the hearts of its people which will be difficult to fill. They will wish for him and the seminary the future which he is fitted to give it.

General Douglas MacArthur has announced the appointment of Lieutenant Colonel Lloyd Lehrbas as his aide-de-camp in Australia.

The newspaper profession will take a special pride in the announcement as Mr. Lehrbas was for many years a writer for the Associated Press and did an outstanding job in time of peace and war. He obtained a leave of absence to join General MacArthur after Pearl Harbor.

Atlantians will take a special interest in the announcement as Colonel Lehrbas' brother is a resident of Decatur, Mark Lehrbas, of the United States Forestry Service.

Georgia Editors Say:

THE FARMER AND HIS CAR

(The Echols Press.)

A passenger car is not a necessity for a family living within a few blocks of a bus line or the shopping district, but it is vital to the farmer living many miles from a community.

These facts should be considered by the government and special consideration should be given to farmers' need for gasoline.

In many small farming operations, a passenger car provides the entire transportation, and is the only means the producer has of reaching his market. Even in larger operations, use of trucks is often wasteful and uneconomic and absorbs unnecessary quantities of gasoline and rubber. The passenger car, in short, provides a farm service that nothing else can sufficiently replace.

Gas priorities for trucks alone will not solve the farmer's transportation problem. His passenger car is often essential to his operation—and essential to the delivery of food the nation must have.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

ECONOMY BLOC WASHINGTON, June 8.—In the face of strong recommendations by the War Department and the Budget Bureau, after a two-day controversy, has voted to kill the Civilian Conservation Corps.

One of the early symbols of the New Deal, this agency, which has done more than any other to build up the physical stamina of American youth, has been the target of the anti-New Dealers for years. Now it has fallen before the ax of the economy bloc, which has a strong anti-administration flavor.

Congress has been much concerned lately about the criticism that has come up from the country against it, but it is just such acts as this that have caused the country to be distrustful. All of the evidence stamps the move as false economy which will cost the government perhaps twice as much in a different direction.

These are many things the CCC boys have been used in the construction of roads, establishing rifle ranges, clearing fields, essential camouflage work, and numerous other tasks.

Maintaining fire control work in our national forests is also an important function to be carried on in wartime. Incendiary bombs are capable of starting fires which, if not controlled, could do untold damage. Enough damage is done in peacetimes even without them. Somebody has to do all of this work.

Army officers testified before the appropriations subcommittee that, if the services of the CCC camps were denied for the work they have been doing in connection with the military reservations, civilians would have to be employed instead. That would cost about twice as much as the pay given the CCC boys, who usually are youths from 17 to 19 years of age.

Representative Malcom C. Tarver, of Georgia, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee in charge of the bill, made a noble effort to have the funds restored after the full committee, by a close vote, rejected his group's recommendations for continuing the CCC in limited form.

He failed chiefly because it is doubtful if more than a handful of the membership of the house troubled to read the testimony before the committee. The two-day debate on the subject seems to indicate this. The so-called anti-New Deal economy bloc, plus an overwhelming scattering of Republicans, simply went out to get the agency that has become a symbol of the New Deal.

It is such displays as this that cause the country to lose confidence in congress.

The Pulse of the Public

The Constitution invites expression of opinion by its readers. This column is open to all communications must be signed and all are subject to editing for conservation of space. Brevity makes argument effective and impels attention.

Editor Constitution: While the whole world is gripped in war, on issues that can not be compromised, I believe it would be a good idea for you, in connection with the editor of The Atlanta Journal (Atlanta's two great newspapers) to call a mass meeting in the city auditorium. This meeting, to be held at an early date in the city auditorium. This meeting, to be held at an early date in the city auditorium.

A victory mass meeting of this kind, repeated in every city and hamlet of America, would create a wave of enthusiasm on the home front that would take at least one year from the duration of the war.

That year saved would mean the saving of the lives of tens of thousands of our own American boys as well as the lives of millions of men and women throughout the world who otherwise will not live to see that glorious day which will follow the victory of the democratic nations.

In spite of our newspapers and the radio there are thousands of Americans today who have only a historical idea of the war.

They do not realize at heart that for lack of preparation, we have already suffered many serious reverses. Let the American people become fully conscious of the issues of this war and it will create a wave of enthusiasm that will not only arouse America but will reach the hearts of our boys who are now fighting on all fronts.

SLAVES OF KING COTTON.

Editor, Constitution: Way back, before 425 B. C., Herodotus was exiled from Greece and went travelling in far lands. He saw many strange things, and among the curious he saw or heard of, and mentioned in his history, were "trees bearing as their fruit fleeces which surpass those of sheep in beauty and excellence." The father of history seems to have admired cotton, but:

"The Slaves of King Cotton"

"They pushed it, sweated in purple and fine linen. That is, they have up to the present. Even the owners of big cotton plantations and the operators of cotton mills have left the wearing of cotton to the field hands who picked the fleeces, or mill hands who bent over the looms. Even corduroy—the cloth of kings—has been ignored, and the bales themselves have been wrapped in jute bagging, which comes from the Far East.

But it seems unlikely now that

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Work NEW YORK, June 8.—Perhaps you never thought you would live to see the day when a gang of extortioners, some of them broken-English foreigners, and many of them underworld crooks, would be turned loose in your own, your native land, in time of war against the most dangerous enemy in American history, with your government's implied, but effective, permission to rob American workers of from $20 to $50, each, as the price of permission to work on war jobs to back up the Army and Navy, but brother you have seen it.

You have seen many such days since the patriotic people of the United States realized their country was broken for the cantonments and powder plants, the factories and flying fields in a thousand localities from Eastport to San Diego.

The hod-carriers' union, a licensed racket, operating under government sanction and controlled by the cantonment men in a Washington headquarters who never were elected to any union office and held no convention in 30 years, has been prowling this free land from the day the program began, openly operating a plain shakedown.

Poor farmers and plainsmen, swamp-Yankees, hillbillies and mountaineers, croppers and odd-job men by the thousands have been held up by the collectors for the racket and compelled to pay for nominal membership in a union of evil reputation, long infested with one of the vilest criminals in the rogue's gallery, before they could be admitted to the works to earn a few dollars for their families.

Men who had not had pay-jobs outside the make-work and relief projects for years and who, actually needed every dollar, they could earn were stuck up as ruthlessly as the victims of any hoist in a roadside beer joint and forced to hand over money that might better have gone for shoes or milk for the children.

Moreschi This union is run by a self-elected and self-perpetuating gang of union racketeers who just sifted into the controlling offices at nobody's invitation their own kind. The boss is Joseph V. Moreschi, formerly of Chicago, now of Washington, D. C., where he does business in the shadow of the capitol dome, which symbolizes in the lingering, infantile fancy of the American people, their constitutional freedom to work at any lawful occupation, begging no man's permission.

Moreschi was during the evil life of Mike Carrozzo, who was boss of 25 Chicago locals of the hod-carriers' union, an intimate and co-operative colleague of that monstrous affront to every decent instinct, Mike had been in the brotch business on the South Side with his noted fellow-countryman, Jim Colosimo, that progressive magnate who introduced the chain-store methods to the vice trade.

Mike was so foul a rodent that even in Chicago, where his political connections and power were recognized, he was twice deterred from pressing his application for citizenship by intimations that he would be protested and turned down. He had an excellent racing stable and a great, modern farm which he raised thoroughbred cattle and swine and he died owing the government of the country which had tolerated his crimes—done mainly in the sacred name of the labor movement—a quarter of a million dollars in income taxes, interest and penalties.

Carrozzo was only one of the vicious men who acquired power and wealth in this union. In the Pittsburgh area a brutal terrorist became a political boss through the power of the racket and in New York and St. Louis several others, of low character, robbed workmen of their earnings and ruled them with club and gun.

Contract This union has done nothing for anything for any single workman in the entire war program that the workman could not have done for himself. The wages were set by contract with the government and the union had nothing to do with the establishment of the rates. It would have been a shameful degradation of the government if it had permitted such a racket to appear in negotiations as spokesmen for Americans seeking work on jobs for their country in war.

Wages A year ago this racket, smoked out by publicity, held a meeting in St. Louis which purported to be a national convention, its first in 30 years. It was a fake convention in which the provisions of the so-called constitution for a secret vote was violated lest the delegates, most of them no better than the national officers, turn the musclemen out. And the few pages of figures which were submitted as an "accounting" of the dues and other tributes collected from many thousands of poor, pick-and-shovel toilers—many of them long since dead—in the course of the 30 years, was a hilarious burlesque.

But, brother, the hod-carriers' union is a union just the same, with all the terrible powers and the rights to tax decent, loyal citizens and to graft from them that your government has awarded to all the unions.

Brother, you have lived to see the day.

And what are you going to do about it?

His impression that he would be complimenting the audience, the band burst forth with the strains of "Marching Through Georgia." And, believe it or not, at its conclusion there was tremendous applause—I believe I was the only one in the crowd that recognized the piece—but then, I had been to school up north.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

POLITICAL NOTES On Saturday, last, the state's Democratic executive committee met in Atlanta and formulated plans for the Democratic primary in September.

It is important to recognize the make-up of the state committee. Not this one, but any state committee. The state committee is selected by the Governor and by the chairman of the committee. The chairman, quite naturally, always is a close political ally of the Governor and usually is a close friend. They agree on the list of appointees.

Only in the rare case of the chairman and the Governor becoming separated by a quarrel or by some change in political affiliation, is there a chance of the committee becoming hostile. Even that is remote because rarely, if ever, would it be possible for the chairman to carry all his appointees with him.

So, the state committee during any administration, is a committee friendly to the Governor and subject, more or less, to his will. There is a polite fiction that this is not so, but actually, and in practice, it is.

I do not think this wrong. It is a part of the political system and not a bad part if one understands it. It is important, though, to understand it, in order to understand the situation in considering administrative actions, dictated by the administration and agreed on in conferences before the meeting. A small group within the committee makes the policies and arranges a majority for them should any possibility of contest be seen. Only rarely does any contest develop.

The committee, as is proper under the system, is the Governor's, or the administration's, committee.

The committee legally can make the primary election rules.

ADMINISTRATION DECISIONS The committee took certain actions in order to interpret to the people the wishes of the administration.

It said, plainly, by passing certain resolutions, which delivered the messages in political, diplomatic language.

That Governor Talmadge will run for governor. (He long ago discarded any idea of running against Richard B. Russell for the United States senate. There was some pressure for him to do so, but he decided not to do it. He would, of course, should anything remove Senator Russell from the race, change his mind, but only should this occur. It is not even probable.)

2.—By passing a resolution which ruled that no state officer could offer in the primary unless his term ended this year, the administration followed the request made by the Governor in his inaugural speech and politely let Senator Russell know it had no intention of putting a candidate in the field against him. The administration will center on its gubernatorial campaign and let him alone in his. The rule will force the state secretary of agriculture, Mr. Tom Linder, to resign if he chooses to gratify an intense ambition and run for the senate. The administration did not wish Senator Russell to think they were going to spring Mr. Linder on him as its candidate. If Mr. Linder runs, as he can, he will, nonetheless, receive some support from the Talmadge voters as he was too firmly identified with the Talmadge forces in the past to have lost that identity. The administration, however, let it be known they were not going to run with Mr. Linder if he does decide to gamble two more years of his four-year term against the dubious chance of defeating Senator Russell. Quite naturally this pains Mr. Linder deeply.

It really is a good rule, anyhow, as Mr. Linder and others know. We have had too much of this business of running for one office while holding another.

Any student of politics may see that one of the great factors in the political success of Senator Russell has been that he never had any connection with any other candidate but has run strictly his own races. The Governor may have noted that.

By passing a resolution commending the Governor for upholding the Constitution which prevents the co-education of the races the administration let it be known the Governor himself does not now, at least, plan to raise the race issue.

They ignored the fact there has never been any substantiated evidence that any effort was made at any time to bring about racial co-education and that such an effort is preposterous on its face. It was politically necessary to sustain the Governor's position. Hence the carefully worded resolution. The supporting speeches embarrassed the committee a bit. They had hoped to avoid them.

ABUNDANT JOY On Friday night there was a mild uneasiness because of the few arrivals. There were enough present to carry out the program but they hoped for a large majority of the committee to be on hand.

They came. Almost the entire membership was on hand and several of the stalwarts came along to add to the party.

It was not really unexpected. The committee members and the stalwarts wanted to exchange ideas and to discuss their respective counties. They also wanted to feel out a few sore spots. And there were sore spots. A road lost here and there; a man turned down for a job; a contract gone awry—all these things cause sore spots. Usually there is some for them, healing salve.

When the committee was done, when the last conference had been held in the last closed room; when the final judgments were in—the Talmadge forces were jubilant. Joy was as much of a surplus as vegetables at the market with this important difference—there was transportation for the joy.

Elections are won by winning the county organizations, the courthouse group, in each county. Without them no candidate can get far.

The Talmadge organization, tighter-knit than ever before, was going back home to start spreading joy, trying to win away any county organization which might have pledged, or might be thinking of pledging, to the campaigns of Mr. Ellis Arnall and Mr. Columbus Roberts.

The Talmadge organization felt swell about the whole thing.

Better Sell the Property at a Good Price Today Than To Get Nothing for It Tomorrow

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

In the last few years there have been many printed references to "suicide squads." These so-called suicides are not weak men who deliberately take their own lives, but men of rare courage who volunteer for missions that give them little hope of safe return.

When the Germans began their invasion of France, a story from Paris told about a new kind of suicide squad. It was composed of middle-aged men, suffering from some incurable disease, who volunteered for any necessary service that would mean almost certain death.

Knowing they were doomed to die soon in any case, they rejoiced at the opportunity to die usefully. It gave death a new dignity. Those who had dreaded and resented death were reconciled to it and welcomed it gladly when it became means of serving their country.

Young people may not understand the feeling, but it is shared in some measure by all men of middle age who have begun to break and realize that death is not far off.

They hate the thought of death chiefly because it seems a cheat. It shames and cheapens them. It takes their most precious possession and gives nothing in return. To die uselessly seems ignoble. They must make the supreme sacrifice and accomplish nothing.

Dudley Glass

In a Broad street drug store, where cigarettes are still 15 cents with no free matches, I was just behind a man of advanced age and apparently a city dweller, from the appearance of his clothing. He asked for a can of smoking tobacco and, to my surprise, produced one of those old-fashioned leather purses with a metal rim and a snap. When he opened it there was revealed an inner compartment, for change, also equipped with a snap. Its owner was as slow finding a dime as an old lady with a five-gallon handbag searching for a trolley token.

I remarked that it had been many a year since I'd seen one of those snap purses.

"My friend," he returned, "I don't know your circumstances, but I'll bet that if you'd toted one of these for the past 40 years, like I have, you'd be better off."

"With a purse like this, which requires two hands and some time to manipulate, you hesitate before you spend a dime for something. Most times you figure you can get along without it. It just isn't worth the trouble. So you save a dime."

"Curse of this country is totting your change loose in your breeches pocket. It's just too handy."

"Well, that philosophy came years too late for me."

Someone has called up to ask whether it isn't about time for the first case of "drunken riding"—on a bicycle.

It does seem that it's likely to happen soon. I'd like to watch the culprit from a tree, safe distant from his path.

To paraphrase "The Purple Cow":

"I never saw a drunken wheeler. Perhaps I'll never see one. A rubber tired, rolling reeler; I'd rather see than be one."

Thanks, for both of us.

gems. In his current issue he explains why.

"Every now and then somebody comes up and asks why in the world don't we reprint stuff that appears in columns in other papers. Usually the question runs like this, 'Say, did you see what Dudley Glass had to say in the Atlanta Constitution this morning?' Pretty good article, don't you think? Why don't you carry it in the Press?"

"If the query doesn't concern Glass, it'll probably be about Olin Miller on the Atlanta Journal. Miller is one of the most quoted paragraphers in the country, and for some reason our subscribers seem determined to get us to print some of his best stuff. If we appear to hesitate, they can't understand why we don't borrow material occasionally and brighten up our column."

"It's not that we have any objection to reprinting some of the columns written by the aforesaid Messrs. Glass and Miller (even if it would mean giving them the benefit of our enormous, discerning and ubiquitous circulation), but we have several good reasons for rocking along week after week with our own private brand of writing."

"In the first place, writing a column is darned hard work and we've selected that chore as our earthly cross to bear. We feel that it's good for our eternal soul to perform our chore each week."

'One Post Office'

Not until this moment had I had an idea there were any "one post office counties" in Georgia. But the Fitzgerald Herald says:

"Ben Hill will go almost but not quite off the list of one-county post offices when the new post office begins operations at Haile, drug store."

When you reflect on it, it appears that one post office in the county seat may be sufficient in some counties—those created for political reasons, which are about the size of a one-mile cotton patch. The farmer has lost his excuse for going to town, even when he's expecting the new mail order catalogue.

Denman Named Rent Appraiser

Appointment of Hugh Denman, president of the Birmingham Real Estate Board, as regional appraiser was announced here yesterday by Frank C. Ralls, southeastern OPA rent executive.

Denman, who is director of the Birmingham Housing Authority and an executive committee member of the Alabama Real Estate Association, is a native of Alabama and has been interested in realty development and loan enterprises for 25 years.

He will work on appraisal problems in connection with federal control of rents in designated defense areas throughout eight southeastern states. Denman assumed his duties here yesterday.

72 Locomotives Named MacArthur

General MacArthur in far away, Australia this week received a letter from R. R. Cummins, general manager of the Central of Georgia Railway. It informed him that the names of 72 freight locomotives had been changed from "Mikado" to "MacArthur" in his honor.

The letter described the locomotives as being "designed to perform well under difficulties." It did not seem fitting to us that the name Mikado should now be used, and we . . . gave them a name more in keeping with prevailing conditions. Our 'MacArthurs' are capable of rendering fine service under difficulties."

FEWER ACCIDENTS.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 8.—(AP)—Savannah's traffic safety is improving. Accidents in May totaled 75, compared with 131—including two fatal mishaps—in the same month last year. There were no fatalities last month.

Eskimos Strict In Enforcement Of Blackouts

Colonel Talley Writes Son Here About Life in Alaska.

Alaskan Eskimos are taking their blackouts seriously.

According to a clipping from an Anchorage, Alaska, paper sent by Lieutenant Colonel R. B. Talley to his son, Lattner Talley, of 3 Sussex road, Avondale Estates, a few weeks ago, the Eskimos see that their blackouts are strictly enforced.

One of the Eskimos in Mekoryuk, a town with a population of 200, on the island of Nunivak, above the Alaskan peninsula, appointed himself official blackout director, the clipping said. It explained that natives live in barabaras, sod huts dug two or three feet into the ground and built on driftwood frames.

The huts have no windows. They are built in the shape of a dome, and have a small hole at the top which serves as ventilator, skylight and chimney. Natives have only to cover the hole to obtain a total blackout.

Natives Alarmed.

The war didn't seem to concern the Eskimos, the clipping said, until Pearl Harbor was bombed. That occurrence alarmed the natives and they began to remember the old days when the Japanese used to sail the waters around the island of Nunivak. Now during blackouts the older women tell exciting tales of Japanese sailors.

Colonel Talley, of the Army Engineering Corps at Anchorage, has been in Alaska several years. His letters to his son tell of adventures flying over the frozen wastes of the country, and riding dog sleds through the snow. Dog teams are vital to the Army in Alaska, he wrote, but in winter planes are almost the only means of transportation.

Sent Pictures.

In 1941 Colonel Talley wrote his son that the Army had about 45 dogs at Anchorage. He added that a fine dog team cost more than $1,000.

Lattner received from his father pictures of fur-coated Eskimos fishing through the ice. He wrote of herds of frightened caribou he had seen from his plane and sent a snapshot of a 1,200-pound bear which had been killed by hunters.

Military matters were not mentioned in the letters. Recently Colonel Talley sent his son a booklet about which he said:

"I don't dare tell you the story of this now. Perhaps later I can."

F. D. R., Hershey Confer On Lowering Draft Ages

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt approached a decision today on the issue of drafting youths 18 and 19 years old for the nation's fighting services, calling in Major General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, to talk over the problem.

Mr. Roosevelt has taken no position publicly on the question of drafting youths in this age group, who now are exempt from selective service. Hershey has pointed out that in every major war the country has called on youths of 18 and 19 to augment its armed services.

Congress would be required to enact legislation if the present restrictions were lifted.

Australian Citizenship Assured for Bridges

SYDNEY, Australia, June 8.—(AP)—Harry Bridges, United States west coast labor leader recently ordered deported as a Communist, was assured full citizenship rights in Australia in a recent cable, Acting Attorney General John A. Beasley announced today.

Bridges replied that the longshoremen would redouble their efforts to expedite war supplies to Australia, recognizing that "the main fight still is against Hitler and Japan," Beasley said. The labor leader was ordered deported as an alien advocating overthrow of the U. S. government by reason of Communist party membership, by the U. S. attorney general, Francis Biddle. Appeals to the courts will require at least two years.

COLD FRONT—Lieutenant Colonel B. B. Talley, of the Army Engineering Corps, stands in the door of his hut in Anchorage, Alaska, near the beginning of the Aleutian Island chain, where he is stationed. He can't write his son, Lattner Talley, of 3 Sussex road, Avondale Estates, anything about military activity, but he sends extensive observations on Alaskan nature study.

Wartime State Good Morning Education Body To Meet Here

Eleven Topics Will Be Discussed at Initial Meeting June 16.

Eleven principal topics concerning war and education will occupy the attention of the Wartime State Education Commission, which will hold its initial meeting at 2:30 o'clock, June 16, Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, announced yesterday.

Essential topics to be discussed are: Training workers for war industries and services; producing goods and services needed for the war; conserving materials by prudent consumption and salvage; helping to raise funds to finance the war; increasing effective manpower by correcting educational deficiencies; promoting health and physical efficiency; protecting school children and property against attack; protecting the ideals of democracy against hazards; teaching the issues, aims and progress of the war and the peace; sustaining the morale of children and adults, and maintaining intelligent loyalty to American democracy.

Approximately 50 prominent Georgia educators were appointed to this commission by Dr. Collins. Dr. Willis A. Sutton, Atlanta school superintendent, will serve as chairman.

Yucatan Plantations Returned to Owners

MEXICO CITY, June 8.—(AP)—A government source said today that some henequen plantations in tropical Yucatan which were expropriated and turned over to workers during the Cardenas regime were being returned to their owners in an effort to increase production.

The United States and Mexico, it was learned, have signed a three-year agreement under which the U. S. contracted to purchase the entire Yucatan henequen crop—a vital hemp—for three years. Exports around 350,000 to 400,000 bales at $36 a bale are expected this year.

Soil Service Chief To Speak At Rally Here

Friends of Land to Hear Dr. H. H. Bennett, of Washington.

Dr. H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service, Washington, will address Georgia business and professional men and educators at a meeting to be held here Thursday under the auspices of the Friends of the Land.

In addition to the address by Dr. Bennett, W. S. Cothran, vice president of the National City Bank at Rome, will speak on the wayside conservation movement in Floyd county, and will illustrate his address with colored lantern slides, showing before and after conditions of the Rome-Kingston highway, where farmers are wholeheartedly co-operating with the conservation movement.

A three-reel motion picture, "The Land," made by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, also will be shown. The meeting is sponsored by Kendall Weisiger, an official of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, and president of Friends of the Land.

Scot Here Wins Commission in Army Air Corps

Captain Olsberg Served as Officer of 'Ladies From Hell'

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.

His fight to fight for Uncle Sam amicably settled by a commission in the Army Air Corps, a bristling, black-eyed little Scottish-born Atlanta is back in town this week distributing among friends and relatives the once-puzzling insignia which he wore as "Ladies From Hell."

He's Captain Albert Edward Olsberg, now 42 but back in World War I, he was one of the youngest officers in the British army, a ripsnorting 18-year-old who did his darndest to live up to the Germans' name for the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders and the other brave Scotches—the "Ladies From Hell."

Army Air Corps.

"I am in the United States Army Air Corps now," explained Captain Olsberg, home on leave from Randolph field, "and since I will have no further need of them myself, I'm giving a few friends the little emblems I wore with my Scots uniform."

Captain Olsberg is delighted to be in the Army of his adopted country, the native land of both his wife and his six-year-old son, Robert Bruce Olsberg—probably because it means victory in one of the major battles of his military career.

Captain Olsberg, who served as manager of the Mayfair Club before he returned to the Army, wanted to get in the fray as soon as England went in. But to do so meant to lose his lovely and doted American citizenship, and the Scottish-American had no idea of doing that. The day after Pearl Harbor he offered his services and previous experience to the War Department and was referred to the Fourth Corps Area headquarters.

Repeats His Offer.

He repeated the offer to the commanding general here in Atlanta and was referred to the Governor, as commanding officer of the state guard. The Governor wrote him a gracious letter, referring him to another state guard officer and after exchanging several letters and spending many hours cooling his heels in waiting rooms, the dark-eyed little Scots officer had just about made up his mind that the Army of his adopted country had no need of him.

"I felt pretty bad about it, I can tell you," declared Captain Olsberg yesterday. "I wasn't asking for a commission or anything. I just wanted an opportunity to serve. Finally General Peyton put me in command of the second military district of air raid wardens and that helped. I felt I was doing something."

Before long Captain Olsberg,

REUNION IN THE ARMY—Captain Albert Edward Olsberg, 42, of Atlanta, and his 30-year-old uncle, Private Jack Klemper, of New York, both arrived here on leave from the Army yesterday—the first glimpse they've had of each other in three years. Captain Olsberg, a native of Glasgow, served as a lieutenant with the "Ladies From Hell" in World War I.

who held a reserve commission in the British army, was given a commission in the United States Army and the battle was won.

By coincidence the little Scotsman's 30-year-old uncle, Private Jack Klemper, of the 18th Infantry Service Company, First Division, at Fort Benning, arrived in Atlanta this weekend to visit the captain's family.

The youthful uncle, a much younger brother of Captain Olsberg's mother, is a native of New York and he is hoping his outfit will be assigned to duty overseas, preferably in the British Isles, so he can see how his own "Fighting First" stacks up beside the much-vaunted "Ladies from Hell."

3,000 Grocers Demand More Price Controls

Investigation Proposed Before Extension of Gas Rationing.

CHICAGO, June 8.—(INS)—American grocers, meeting 3,000 strong at the forty-fifth convention of the National Association of Retail Grocers, tonight demanded "effective controls over all major items of cost," including wages and farm commodity prices.

In a second major resolution the grocers asked that nationwide rationing of gasoline be withheld until investigation has established its need. A third would have asked a general sales tax to help finance the war, but action on this was deferred until tomorrow.

The price control resolution pointed out that a rigid ceiling has been fixed over retail prices and declared that under this ceiling the grocer must contend with:

1. An estimated over-all average increase of 10 per cent in replacement costs.
2. The prospect of an increase of not less than 50 per cent in taxes this year over last.
3. Scarcities of merchandise, manpower and delivery services.
4. Prospective increases in wages and farm prices.

Labor and farm commodity costs represent "approximately 85 per cent of the total cost of food to the consumer," the resolution stated, but "these largest components of retail food prices are subject to no effective controls."

Lieutenant General Walter Krueger, commanding, has announced the assignment of former Atlanta, Colonel George R. Barker, assistant chief of staff, G-3, Third Army, as chief of staff of the VIII Army Corps at Brownwood, Tex., Headquarters Third Army.

Colonel Barker had an integral part in the early planning and training of the Third Army. As operations officer of the Third Army, he played an important part in planning the Louisiana maneuvers in 1941 and in the organization of the Third Army Junior Officers' Training Center at Camp Bullis.

Born in Atlanta, Colonel Barker was graduated from the Georgia Institute of Technology as an electrical engineer in 1917. He was first commissioned as second lieutenant of cavalry, later transferred to the infantry. His service has included tours of duty at Fort Leavenworth, in San Antonio, and Panama.

APPOINTED—Colonel George R. Barker, former Atlanta, has been assigned as chief of staff of the Eighth Army Corps at Brownwood, Texas.

Bomber Crashes In Surf; 5 Rescued

MARGATE CITY, N. J., June 8.—(AP)—An Army bomber piloted by Captain Morris Fitzgerald, who was credited two weeks ago with sinking an enemy submarine while on coast patrol, crashed at 12:02 a. m. (EWT) today in the surf 50 feet off this coast resort's beach, but all five occupants were saved.

Captain Fitzgerald and Mechanic-Private Walter B. Egoff stayed in the plane as it was forced down by lack of gasoline. The co-pilot, Lieutenant R. Depke, the radio man, Sergeant F. R. Luke, and a passenger, Lieutenant Colonel Borror, bailed out.

Coast guardsmen who rescued those who landed in the surf said five of the five were seriously injured.

Plane Hits Power Line; Flyer Killed

TALLASSEE, Ala., June 8.—(AP)—W. A. Winston, superintendent of the Upper Tallassee dam of the Alabama Power Company, said today one Negro Army flyer was killed and another seriously hurt when their plane struck a high-tension line and crashed into the Tallapoosa river.

A Negro plowman working near the river was quoted by Winston as saying the plane, from the Tuskegee Army Flying School, was flying down the river at a low altitude when it struck the wires.

2 Killed in Crash Of Training Plane

PENSACOLA, Fla., June 8.—(AP) Ensign Reginald W. Syrcle and Aviation Cadet John Whitelaw Murrell were killed in the crash of a training plane near the Pensacola Naval Air Station, an air station spokesman announced today.

The plane went into a spin at a low altitude and crashed into shallow water in a bayou yesterday, he said.

4 Believed Dead In Plane Wreckage

PRAIRIE, Miss., June 8.—(AP)—Four or more Army aviators were apparently killed in the crash of a twin-engine training plane near here late this afternoon.

William G. Sanders, a foreman at a plant here and former reporter for the Memphis Commercial Appeal, said the plane went into a spin from a height of about 1,000 feet, and dived. He said the wreckage was so complete it was impossible to determine whether four or six men were in the plane.

One flyer bailed out, he said, just as the plane went into a dive, but the falling plane clipped the parachute around about 200 feet from the ground.

Sanders said the plane was one of several flying in the vicinity at the time.

10-Year Sentence Given Dr. Gros, Convicted Agent

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—(AP)—Dr. Hans Helmut Gros, convicted German agent, was sentenced today to 10 years in federal prison.

His American-born wife, Frances, convicted with him, had asked probation and will receive a hearing next Monday.

Asked by Federal Judge Ben Harrison if he had anything to say, Gros read from his script: "I came to this country because I wanted to get away from all European troubles and worries. I was under the impression that liberty and justice could be found in the United States. The FBI and this court have convinced me I was wrong."

Gros was sentenced to 10 years on a charge of conspiring to send defense information to the German government and five more for failing to register as a German agent, the terms to run concurrently.

FBI men had testified that Gros said he came here under instructions from the late Reinhard Heydrich, Nazi Gestapo terrorist, to organize sabotage.

Christians Gets 5-Year Sentence

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 8.—(AP)—George W. Christians, 52-year-old construction engineer who directed what he called "a paper and ink revolution for economic liberty," today was sentenced to a total of five years on sedition charges.

Overruling a defense motion for a new trial, Federal Judge Leslie Darr said he felt the defendant should be incarcerated for the duration of the war without parole before the war's end.

The judge also declined to grant bond pending an appeal which defense attorneys said they would file.

Russian Fascist Waives Extradition

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 8.—(AP)—Anastase Andreievich Vonsiatsky, prominent Russian Fascist who was arrested here Saturday by FBI agents on a charge of conspiracy to transmit information of military value to a foreign agent, waived extradition to Connecticut at a hearing today.

U. S. Judge John P. Hartigan signed an order for his removal, and U. S. marshals immediately took him to Hartford. Vonsiatsky, whose home at Thompson, Conn., recently was raided by FBI agents and who helped organize the Russian National Revolutionary Fascist party in 1933, spent the weekend in jail when he was unable to raise $25,000 bail.

PLAYING HOOKEY—This homing pigeon, property of the Birmingham News, is supposed to be in school, but he's playing hookey and is now a Georgia military secret. However, he'll probably be spanked today for playing hookey, and sent back to school. The bird holding the bird is Al Sharp, Constitution reporter.

Quarterly Conferences Are To Be Held by FBI

F. R. Hammack, special agent of the Atlanta field office of the FBI, announced yesterday that quarterly conferences of law enforcement officers under the FBI law enforcement officers' mobilization plan for national defense, will be held at Macon, Athens and Gainesville, Ga., at 2 p. m., June 10, June 11 and June 12, respectively, and that approximately 200 law enforcement officers are expected to attend the three conferences.

Abit Nix, Athens attorney and civic leader, will address the officers during the open session of the conference.

The primary purpose of these conferences is to co-ordinate the efforts of all law enforcement agencies in combating Fifth Column activities and instruction and information are offered during the conferences concerning the latest developments and procedures with regard to investigations relating to espionage, sabotage and subversive elements, Hammack stated.

Homing Pigeon Homeless Here, Playing Hookey

'Birmingham Butch' Interned for Duration of Trainer's School.

BULLETIN

Butch just couldn't resist the bright lights of Atlanta. Ray Norman, Birmingham pigeon trainer, said last night he requested that the pigeon be sent by express to his home. The pigeon was released at Tifton, Ga., Saturday afternoon, and had no business whatever in Atlanta, Norman said.

The pigeon walked into the store just like he owned it. He stomped his foot and demanded food and drink—rather, feed and drink.

Bob Sargent, of the Edwards-Harris Company at 258 Peachtree street, quickly ran around the counter and picked up the bird.

On one of the youngster's legs was a metal band, bearing the name "Birmingham News, No. 25." One other was a rubber racing band.

The youngster was not dismayed when Sargent placed him in a box and brought him to The Constitution offices in an effort to find out what to do with him.

The Constitution staff immediately adopted the bird and named him Butch.

The Associated Press wired Birmingham and got back an interesting answer:

"News pigeon trainer at 'school' and until can reach suggest diet of feed and water."

That partially solved the mystery. Butch was just playing hookey.

Last night Butch became a military secret. He was sneaked into the Georgia State Guards' cote, and even the Guards don't know he's there.

Nostalgic Soldier Gives Flowers Away

A lonesome soldier yesterday gave a Jacksonville girl a bouquet of cape jasmine because he couldn't give it to the girl he'd left behind.

Miss Frances Phillips, here on a visit, walked out of a department store just as the soldier was buying the flowers. He noticed her glancing at him, his face reddened and he suddenly thrust them into Miss Phillips' hands, saying: "They're my girl's favorite flowers and I always buy them for her. But I can't give them to her, so you take them."

He fled down the street.

Ether Picture, Without Long, Is Protested

Citizens Resent Honor Being Taken From Noted Georgian.

ATHENS, Ga., June 8.—North-east Georgia citizens, particularly those in Clarke, Madison and Jackson counties, are ready to rise up in arms!

Hollywood is threatening to take from this section the recognized claim that Dr. Crawford W. Long was the discoverer of the use of sulphuric ether as an anesthetic, they feel, and they bitterly resent it.

Columnists lately writing from Hollywood say that a movie is in preparation with Dr. William Morton, Boston dentist, pictured as the man who made the discovery the United States government itself has officially accorded Dr. Long.

Dr. Long was born at Danielsville, in Madison county, performed his first operation with ether in Jefferson, Jackson; died and was buried in Athens, in Clarke county.

These columnists quote the film script writer as saying research revealed Morton as the man who discovered ether. And the folks in this section demand to know what kind of research was it that failed to find Long's operation was in 1842, Morton's in 1846; the world of medicine itself recognizes Long; why does not the monument to the discoverer of ether in Boston, Morton's own home town, bear his name, and, lastly, that the United States government a few years ago officially recognized Dr. Long's claims by issuing a memorial stamp in his honor, and sending the then Postmaster General James A. Farley to Jefferson to sell the first stamp?

Jap Air Losses 4 to Our One, Arnold Says

'Day of Reckoning' Not So Far Off, Iowa Audience Told.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Iowa, June 8.—(AP)—Lieutenant General H. H. Arnold, commander of the United States Army air force, declared here today that "for every one of our planes shot down, the Japs have lost four."

In an address prepared for the 100th annual commencement of Iowa Wesleyan College, at which he received an honorary doctor of laws degree, the general said "the day of reckoning is not as far off as some people think."

"I am telling Tokyo that we have thousands more Colin Kellys and Butch O'Hares and Jimmy Doolittles on the way. This is just the dawn of a day of wrath."

The general, who recently returned from Europe, said we "did not fly to London to go on the defensive."

"Raids like those on Cologne and Essen were just starters to those which are to follow where U. S. and RAF fighters and bombers ride the skies as a team."

The speaker said "The Axis knows that the next six months will spell victory or defeat for their forces. For the Axis it is now or never."

By the end of this year, the general said, the Army air force will have over 60,000 officers and close to a million men. By June of next year, if it becomes necessary, we will double that."

Now that volume production of aircraft is under way, he said, American planes "in large numbers are being flown constantly by our 'ferrying command' to areas where they will do the most good now—to Britain, Russia, the Middle East, China and Australia."

Board Votes for End To Floyd Bennett Strike

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—The general executive board of Local 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL) voted tonight to instruct 250 members to end their 11-day strike at Floyd Bennett airport and return to work tomorrow.

Harry Van Arsdale Jr., business manager of the local, said the action was taken after he had been informed by Robert Abalow, National War Labor Board mediator, that the board would begin hearings Thursday on the dispute between the union and the New York Telephone Company over whether union members or telephone company employees should place certain conduits.

Van Arsdale said "We are urging the men to speed the work as much as possible to make up for lost time."

The chief's son, Chadwick Thunder, is an Army lieutenant.

Wesleyan 'Grads' Indignant Over Challenge of Priority

By SALLY FORTH.

ALUMNAE OF WESLEYAN COLLEGE at Macon, the oldest chartered college for women in America, who are legion in Georgia and the south, were indulging in a bit of righteous indignation yesterday. And rightly so. For hadn't the hallowed traditions of "the oldest and the best" been challenged? And by no less a person than Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt?

In her column entitled "My Day," which appears daily in The Constitution, the First Lady on yesterday took up the banner for higher educational systems, with special emphasis on independent colleges. In discussing the problems of these institutions during the exigencies of war, she observed that Iowa Wesleyan is a breeder of adventurous young people, because the college rather likes adventure. And, to back up her statement, she asserted: "It was the first college ever to confer an educational degree upon a woman. This was given to Mrs. Frances W. Bergiehas, who is now living in Seattle, Wash., and is 97 years old, a graduate of the class of 1862."

Either Mrs. Roosevelt has been misinformed, or she is confused by the name Wesleyan, as hundreds of Georgia Wesleyan graduates will testify. For their alma mater conferred the first educational degree upon a woman in 1840—some 22 years before Iowa Wesleyan got around to handing out diplomas!

That first graduate was Miss Catherine E. Brewer, who later married C. E. Benson and reared a distinguished son, William S. Benson, who became an admiral in the U. S. Navy. Her diploma, encased in a handsome frame, now hangs in the college library at Macon—as tangible proof of Wesleyan's priority and as an object of pride to all her "daughters."

As a matter of fact, that Wesleyan class of 1840 had five members, but degrees were conferred in alphabetical order, thus making Miss Brewer the first graduate. In 1936, the college celebrated its 100th anniversary, and if the venerable institution could speak, it would probably regard as a babe in arms a college that will not serve its centennial until 1938!

WHEN Jean Scruggs, beautiful brunet daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Anderson returned last week from Rollins College, where she has just completed her first year, she had the unusual experience of hearing, on the day of her arrival, Ted Malone read and comment on her father's poetry over his nation-wide NBC program, "Between the Book Ends." Mr. Malone devoted his entire program to Dr. Scruggs' recent volume of poems, "Ritual for Myself."

While at Rollins, Jean majored in dramatics and took part in a number of plays given at the hands of Annie Russell theater on the college campus. Her most impressive role, perhaps, was the lead in the sophisticated play, "The Children's Hour." Her instructors in dramatics have highly praised her ability—an ability that was evident even during her North Fulton High school days, when she was an active member of the Atlanta Theater Guild, taking prominent parts in a number of plays.

Jean's sorority at Rollins is Pi Beta Phi. Although this is her first year in the organization, she has already been elected to an important office, that of secretary.

Punishment Seldom Cures Child's Nervous Habits

By Dr. William Brady.

Altogether too many letters run something like this:
"What can be done to break a child of the bed-wetting habit? The child is seven years old and no amount of shame or punishment seems to do any good."
Such a letter makes me wish I could give the parent or guardian of the unhappy child a nice confidential, strictly private kick in the pants.

Censure, shame or punishment of a child for wetting the bed is as futile as it is wicked. No child willfully does so. Neither is it an indication of any kind of inferiority in the make-up or mentality or disposition of the child.

It is more or less normal for children to continue this infantile habit, at least at times, up to the age of three years. That is, there is nothing to be concerned about if a child occasionally does so up to that age.

Instead of the despicable practice of humiliating the child by speaking of the matter in the presence of other persons, as ignorant or vicious parents or guardians sometimes do, keep it secret between you and the child, as far as possible, and share sincerely the child's natural regret when the accident happens and pleasures when it doesn't. Thus you gain the child's confidence and co-operation in a systematic plan or schedule which will correct the habit—this is described in the pamphlet on bed-wetting.

Stars Will Set the Pace In Simple Clothes For the Duration

By Louella Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, June 8.—(INS) Irene, famous Hollywood stylist, moves into Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to take the post of executive designer. She will have the last word on all gowns for their stars. Irene takes her new position as soon as she returns from New York. With the necessity for economical materials and wartime styles she plans to make simple gowns for Greer Garson, Myrna Loy, Joan Crawford, Jeanette MacDonald, Ann Sothern and the other actresses for whom she will create film fashions.

The popular Irene has designed clothes for practically every star in Hollywood, but from now on her work will be confined to M-G-M actresses. She is giving up all outside interests, which is going to be a blow to The Gals who always depended on her for clothes. Amazing is this girl's success. She came here from Montana with the idea of becoming a concert pianist. She opened a small shop near the University of Southern California campus and in a short time her clothes became the rage.

Maybe as a member in good standing (I hope) of the bundles for blue jackets I shouldn't admit what I don't know about Q-boats could fill a library, but from Paramount, where they have just bought James Edward Grant's original "Decoy" for Fred MacMurray and Alan Ladd, I learned they are just plain dynamite to the enemy.

These are the innocent looking vessels, disguised as yachts or sailing boats, that in this war, and the last one, too, are heavily armed to seek out and fight submarines. Grant, you may remember, is the author of two other virile stories, "Boomtown" and "Johnny Eager." Para continues to believe they have the find of the year in young Aalan Lass—and after the New York reviews on "This Gun for Hire" they may be right.

I have always contended Heather Angel is one of our most talented actresses, but she has never seemed to go as far as she should have in the movies. But it is different on Broadway. Last season she gets an even better break. Oscar Serlin has signed her to star in his stage play, "The Family." The Book, by Nina Fedora, is one of the most fascinating I have ever read. It is a story of a White Russian family who went to China to live and their struggle for existence, and their adventures there.

Interesting, indeed, is the news Kay English will wed Norman Kerry. Both Kay and Norman have many friends in Hollywood, and although it has been no secret they have been seeing each other, their marriage plans come as a surprise. Kay said they will marry as soon as Norman receives his final divorce decree from Ellen May Wells, to whom he was married some years ago. At one time Norman was one of the top screen actors and his many fans would like to see him back.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Ruth Hussey and Lincoln Fogarty have set the date for this month; Ginger Rogers is the gal Lieutenant Jimmy Stewart sees the most on his furloughs to Hollywood; John Huston, who has been in town on leave from the Signal Corps, has been living at a hotel. Talk is he and Mrs. Huston are about to flash an announcement; the Cliff (double talk) Nazeros are back from the east, where they adopted a three-year-old girl; Ella Logan displaying a big diamond ring at Charley Foy's—put on her engagement finger by Freddie Finkelhoffe, who, incidentally, is said to be the angel for her new show; Clark Gable on his motorcycle, a familiar sight around Encino, where he lives. That's all today. See you tomorrow! But Connie Russell says, "The stay-at-home soldier can do his deed—and help his country with a war stamp—ede."

The bride of 1942 is a brave woman. She faces the most uncertain future in the history of modern times. Her husband, perhaps, is serving in our armed forces. Her first child may be born while its father is fighting "some where overseas."

Economic uncertainty, too, shadows her future. After the war, there will be monetary adjustments for her to face. Wedding gifts of war savings bonds will insure her security in days to come, while they pave the way for her country's victory. Not only will she appreciate this gift now, but on her tenth wedding anniversary, when the bonds mature, she will thank you again for your wise and patriotic thoughtfulness.

Points for Parents

By Edythe Thomas Wallace.

This
Mrs. A.: "Bettie has an adolescent crush on you, Miss Smith. . . Did you go to a camp when you were her age? . . . Will you tell her about it and interest her in going to a camp where she'll be with other girls?"

Not This
Mother: "Are you writing another silly letter to Miss Smith? Your tagging her around is perfectly disgusting. Why don't you make some friends of girls who are somewhere near your own age?"

The parent who desires success in helping her daughter get over a crush on an older woman must make her efforts too obvious.

Today's Charm Tip.

Women rushing by the thousands to get into uniform might register Monty MacLevy's apt phrase equally applicable to women: "A uniform doesn't hold a man up. The man holds the uniform up."

Pity Offers Poor Substitute for Love

Dear Dixie:

I am 16 and am very much in love with a soldier. He says he does not love me any more, but I keep on hoping that some day he will return and say he still loves me. One of my best friends told me not long ago that he said I had been running after him. I have always tried to act like a lady, and I thought that was an insult. I wrote him a letter and told him I never wanted to see him again, and it looks now as if I never will.

I am supposed to marry soon. He is very sweet to me and I hate to make him unhappy. He is overseas now, and I told him once that if I ever said I did not love him, he would either kill himself or never come back to the States again.

I do not know what to do. If you were in my shoes would you go on and marry him and try to make him happy? Men do not keep waiting for my real love to come home again? If I marry the second one he might learn some day that I only married him because I felt sorry for him. If the first one comes back after I have married I know I will go to him, for I love him so much.

MIXED UP.

Since the two are overseas I think you have ample time to consider the situation from a very sensible standpoint. In the first place, B will not kill himself over the loss of your love. Men do not kill themselves for love, so do not believe that. He will be hurt, perhaps, and very sad over losing you, but he will never do anything as drastic as he says. He is a long way from home and I have an idea that he will come back to the States when the war is over. So face that problem when you meet it and do not worry too much about it.

As for marrying him out of pity you will have only yourself to pity, for you will be very unhappy. There is no glory in marrying someone because you feel sorry for them, for you not only make a mess of their lives by not giving them love and happiness, but you make yourself miserable and worried all the time.

If you think you love the first one, by all means wait until he comes home from the war. By that time it is possible that your love may have cooled a bit and you will not have to make such a great decision. You must remember that when young boys and men know that a girl is crazy about them they take great delight in telling others that she is running after them. Of course some girls do and they deserve remarks of this kind. I think you were a bit drastic and too quick tempered about writing him the letter, although I can understand how the remark may have made you feel. By writing him and blowing him up, made him think

MY DAY: An Explanation Of Ceiling Prices

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Sunday.—I have been getting some inquiries which lead me to believe that some people are still a little puzzled about the price control regulations. These regulations are an effort to keep down the cost of living, and to prevent people bidding against each other when they have the money and goods are scarce, which sends the price up.

Since May 18 stores cannot charge more for the articles which come under OPA regulation than they charged in their particular store at the highest peak in March. This price is called a ceiling price and obviously it may vary in different stores. Stores may sell below this price, so the public may find sales going on of certain articles, but no store can sell above its own ceiling price. You should find posted in the store or on the price tags "of cost of living commodities," notices giving these prices, which cover the articles considered most important in our daily living.

There are no ceiling prices set on fresh fruits and vegetables, and there are a few other food products exempted from the regulations until they attain the price level prescribed by congress. Bread, milk, beef and pork and all clothing and household furnishings are covered, however, by ceiling prices. On July 1 ceiling prices on some services will become effective. For instance, laundries and dry cleaning will come under this regulation, but professional services, motion pictures and other entertainments will not be covered.

The income of the people of the country as a whole has gone up. Therefore there is more money to spend. But the amount of what we can produce for civilian use will be far below what we have to spend, and if we do not put a definite top price on goods, which price cannot be changed, we will see prices go up.

This is only one step in the program to prevent inflation. Next, debts must be reduced. We must have wider rationing in order that people may share equally in what is produced for civilian use. Wages must be stabilized when once we really succeed in keeping down the cost of living. This last step cannot be taken, however, until we have machinery whereby we can prevent wages from being depressed by various methods which may come into use if proper supervision is not exercised.

Grin and Bear It

having to leave that he forget me or he just didn't want to give me anything?
A DISAPPOINTED GIRL.
He probably thought that you did not want him to give you anything by not telling him when he asked you. If he had known what to give you, he would not have asked you, so always remember that a direct answer always gets the best results. As for the card, some men just do not think of little things like cards, and often telegrams. Goodbye's are often very hard, and it is possible that he could not bear the sight of going away and leaving you.
Maybe he thought that just to leave you at home as he had done many times before did not have such a definite and final flavor. I am sure he did not forget you, so do not worry for he will write. In the hurry and bustle of getting settled in camp, the time just slipped up, and he failed to send you the card. Remember that there are a lot of husbands who forget the birthdays of their wives, so do not treat this little mishap as a major tragedy, for if he wants to marry you, it stands to reason he loves you.

Correct Food Habits For the Teens

By Ida Jean Kain.

The way some of you 'teen-age girls eat, you're going to be old and gray at 30. You make a habit of skipping good, wholesome meals and then you fill up on sweets. That is just about the quickest way there is to lose your health—and your looks.

Now honestly, what do you eat between meals? I asked this question at a girls' school recently and the answers gave me indigestion: Chocolate bars in the morning, strawberry sodas or banana splits in the afternoon, and peanuts and soda pop after dinner!

Maybe that is a slight exaggeration in your case. But I suspect it might hit an average for the teens. If it does strike home, all you have to do to be healthier, prettier and normal weight and cut down on your skin troubles is stop eating between meals!

If you know what's good for you, you will eat your meals and you will make sure you eat all the foods you need. Nobody should have to coax you twice to drink your quart of milk a day. It is your best beauty food. And you will have a glass of fruit juice, along with two or three other fruits, a green, leafy raw vegetable, another green leafy cooked vegetable, a yellow vegetable, and any others your mother serves. There is no such thing as too many vegetables and salads.

You're young and you learn fast, so learn to like whole wheat bread. That is the best kind. And eat your whole grain cereal in the morning. Just to round out the day's protective and beauty foods, have an egg at one meal or another.

If you are too chubby, don't get the idea this list doesn't apply to you. You need the same foods but you can trim down on the calories. Here is the way to do it: Leave off the fat part of the meat, and pass up the gravy. Have only one slice of whole wheat bread and one pat of butter at a meal. Restricting the bread means you are also restricting the vitamin B—and you need that and plenty of it for good nerves. So have some wheat germ mixed in with your breakfast cereal, or take yeast tablets. That will fix you up with vitamin B.

From any standpoint, you can get along without pie, cake, cookies and candy. If your skin is breaking out, keep away from chocolates, fats and pastries as you would from poison ivy. Instead of these, have fresh fruits for dessert and nothing between meals except fresh fruit and milk.

Make it a hard-and-fast rule to eat a hearty breakfast and an adequate lunch, and never to stuff, even at dinner. Get into the habit of eating regular meals and choosing the foods that make for health and good looks. If you do that you'll never have to worry about your weight.

Your Horoscope For Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS.

What today means to you if you were born between:
March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—The mental energy of yourself and those around you will be keen the entire day, but your judgment is not reliable. Therefore, this is not a favorable day for important decisions.
April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The entire day and evening favors financial, domestic and business interests. The hours between 3:04 p. m. and 7:04 p. m. are especially good.
May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Before 6:54 a. m. guard against any unpremeditated action, rashness in travel and speech.
June 21st and July 23d (CANCER)—Before 9:58 a. m. favors attention to only ordinary and routine matters. The remainder of the day you can give full rein to your activities, whether business, sports or personal.
July 24th and August 22d (LEO)—Keep in mind today that you must keep your pulse, for the indications are that you will be balked at every turn. Affairs do not go right under influences predominating today, and probably will not go all right. Some hard lesson learned can be most irrevocably of future benefit.
August 23d and September 22d (VIRGO)—From 9:06 a. m. through 3:48 p. m. care and anxiety should be practiced. This especially applies to assuming new financial obligations.
September 23d and October 22d (LIBRA)—Before 1:26 p. m. a feeling of uneasiness, apprehension, or it may be extravagance, surrounds your mindings and you will probably have a desire to plunge into something. More will be gained by waiting and avoid thinking in too lavish terms.
October 23d and November 21st (SCORPIO)—The entire day may be considered favorable for all lines of endeavor. Be active and energetic in promoting all matters. The afternoon hours are more favorable than those previous to 1:27 p. m.
November 22d and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—During the morning hours and until 4:56 p. m. is a favorable time for obtaining the confidence of people who are in power. At this time you may interest people whom you have not been able to convince of the value of your propositions.
December 22d and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—Previous to 12:07 p. m. you can accomplish your desires with unexpected ease. The entire day is favorable for general business.
January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—Before 3:05 p. m. you will be inspired to enter into affairs that are original and quick, and life may be moving very fast around you.
February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—The combined influences for the day tend toward quick flare-ups, peevishness and irritation. There will be a danger of over-estimating finances and overdoing gaiety.

City Committee Appointments Expected Today

Hartsfield Not To Keep Enemies Off, Observers Say.

Mayor Hartsfield is expected to name the membership of 19 standing city council committees this morning and it was predicted freely yesterday that he will not establish a "lookout committee," composed of political enemies, "with nothing to do but to look out the windows."

Hartsfield last night was engaged in conferences with council members and heads of various departments with a view of completing his committee lists early today.

He already has a tentative list drawn, but it may be changed in several instances before it is finally filed with Joe L. Richardson, city clerk.

It was anticipated that the new mayor will make changes in several of the committees, namely, the finance, police, water and the board of firemasters, although Hartsfield has made no public announcement. Those close to the administration, however, assert that Hartsfield will give assignments to practically all members of council, including those who opposed his election May 27.

U. S. Bombers Used by RAF In Belgian Raid

Huge Formations of Bostons Concentrate Against Bruges.

LONDON, June 8. (AP)—United States-built Boston bombers took over today's RAF assault upon the Belgian coast, concentrating on the Belgian canal city of Bruges in the heaviest of day-long raids in which hundreds of planes participated.

Huge formations of Bostons conveyed by droves of fighters swarmed over the coast in relays, some flying at 20,000 feet and visible only once and then through breaks in cloud formations. At one point on the Kent coast it took one mammoth relay a half hour to pass over.

With the RAF offensive going full blast around the clock, it was announced that 86 German planes were bagged by British fighters in daylight operations alone in May, bringing the daylight total since the war's start to 4,365 enemy craft.

Charged with the task of clearing northern France and the Low Countries of German air power and so making the RAF's mighty night bombing offensive all the more effective, swarms of daylight raiders attacked air bases, channel ports, anti-aircraft positions, detector posts and other objectives.

These raids were a continuation of the powerful daytime campaign begun last week in conjunction with the bombing offensive by as many as 1,000 fighters and light bombers on some nights. But bad weather on the continent kept the "heavies" from making another of their nightly visits to the Reich.

Conditions were good, however, to permit blows in France on freight yards near Caen in Normandy, a train at Montdidier, near Amiens, and an airfield at Leeuwarden in Holland. Mines also were dropped in German waters.

Fifteen Heroes To Tell People About the War

American, British Aces Begin Nation-Wide Tour.

(Picture on Page 1)
NEW YORK, June 8. (AP)—Fifteen British and American war heroes were greeted today by crowds of New Yorkers who laid down a barrage of welcome to America at the start of a nation-wide tour.

For these bemedaled, but modest men, this was perhaps their most difficult assignment of the war thus far. They were telling America of the United Nations' fight at the front.

Ten who have seen fighting with Britain's forces on land, air and sea in Europe, Asia and Africa, arrived by plane from Canada and were joined at the Battery a short while later by five Americans who were in the thick of battle at Bataan and other Pacific theaters of war.

After a formal reception by government, city and British officials, they rode in automobiles along a parade route which reached from the Battery to City Hall, and then continued uptown along Seventh avenue to the Father Duffy statue in Times Square.

Tape Shower.
Ticker tape rained from skyscrapers as the cars pushed through crowded, cheering throngs in the downtown area where many institutions gave employees time off to witness the show.

The Americans included: Lieutenant Commander Harold P. Smith, holder of the Navy cross for combat action against Japanese vessels at Java; Ensign Donald J. Mason, of Rochester, Minn., who shot the distinguished flying cross, who sent the cryptic message "Sighted sub; sank same"; Lieutenant Eliot Vandewater Jr., of Washington, who received the distinguished flying cross at the recommendation of General MacArthur for a raid on the Japs at Luzon; Lieutenant William C. Carrithers, of Manitou Springs, Colo., cited for special skill as a bomber navigator during attacks on Jap troops, and Lieutenant George S. Welch, of Wilmington, Del., who attacked a flight of 12 Jap planes at Pearl Harbor and shot down four, winning the distinguished service cross.

British Heroes.
In the British contingent were: Squadron Leader John Daring Nettleton, holder of the Victoria cross for bombing activity near Augsburg; Pilot Officer A. F. Taylor, holder of the distinguished flying cross for raids on Rostock; Flight Lieutenant Carroll, Warren McCoplin, an American ace of the Eagle squadron; Lieutenant Thomas W. Boyd, wearer of the distinguished service cross for operations in Germany and Norway.

Also Wing Commander W. London, decorated with the distinguished flying cross for gallantry at Tobruk; Lieutenant J. Michael Hall, wounded in a commando raid on Vaaco, Norway; Sergeant D. N. Huntley, of the RAF, who took part in the flight to Augsburg; Sergeant R. George Herbert, a commando who received the distinguished conduct medal for capturing two prisoners; Chief Engine Room Artificer Harry Howard, D. S. M. holder for action in blowing up the docks at St. Nazaire, and Flight Sergeant Maxwell A. D. Riddell, who bombed Rostock and dropped RAF leaflets, and received the distinguished flying medal.

Crop Loans at Full Parity Prices Asked

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP)—Two members of the Senate Agriculture Committee drafted a bill today to provide mandatory loans at full parity prices on basic agricultural commodities for this year's crops.

"In view of the low and constantly declining prices of the grains and of cotton," Senators Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, and Russell, Democrat, Georgia, sponsors of the bill, said, "it is evident that without parity price floor it will be totally impossible for products of the basic crops to receive parity in the markets for their year's work."

Bank Loans in Nation Decline in Past Week

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board said today that commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of banks in 101 leading cities declined $15,000,000 to a total of $6,542,000,000 in the week ended June 3.

This was the third consecutive weekly decline, but the trend of these loans has been downward for several weeks, due partly to refunding of defense loans into securities and reduction of consumer financing paper.

Cards Win 10 Out of 13 But Fail To Gain

Dodgers Capture 11 of Last 14 and Maintain 7-Game Lead.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—(AP)—When a baseball club travels at the pace the Cardinals have gone the past two weeks—winning 10 games and losing three for a percentage of .769—yet fails to gain ground in a pennant race, brother, it is up against a tough proposition.

Yet that is the record of the St. Louis Cardinals who still are confident of winning the 1942 flag despite the fact that today, on the eve of an important three-game series with the Brooklyn Dodgers, they find themselves seven games behind the Bums.

While the Cards were winning 10 of the last 13 games the Dodgers were stretching out with 11 of their last 14.

"A contending club figures to beat the favorite perhaps 50 per cent of the time," said Manager Billy Southworth as his Cardinals rested up for tomorrow night's engagement, "and we have a slight edge on the Dodgers."

"But they're a good ball club and you're not going to kick them around."

"If anybody beats them, it'll have to be because nobody else in the league has been doing anything with them."

Southworth plans to pitch Southpaw Max Lanier in the opener and use Ernie White, another lefty, and Mort Cooper or Lon Warneke, both right-handers, in the two day games. A clean sweep of the series would still leave the Cards four games behind.

So far this season the Cards have won three out of four from Brooklyn with Lanier, Warneke and White the winning pitchers.

Something else for Southworth to worry about: The Cards now are without a .300 hitter in the lineup, Enos Slaughter dropping out of the select list Sunday with just one hit in six times at bat.

Lookouts Make Clean Sweep of Chick Series, 8-4

Ortiz Raps Three-Bagger With Bases Jammed Off Veverka.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 8.—(AP)—The Lookouts turned in their sixth straight victory today, turning back the Memphis Chicks 8 to 4. The Chattanooga made a clean sweep of the series, winning four games from the Chicks.

Scarborough turned in a neat hurling job for the winners, limiting Memphis to nine hits while his teammates were collecting 14 off Veverka.

High spot of the game was a three-run triple in the opening frame by Bob Ortiz, new Lookout outfielder.

Phillips was obtained from Detroit two years ago. He played with Dayton, O., of the Mid-Atlantic League for part of last year, and has been hitting at a .324 clip and fielding well for Columbia.

All Office Workers Will Be Unionized, Speaker Predicts

Prediction that the nation's office workers will be organized into a labor union was made yesterday by Harry Arthur Hopf, president of the Hopf Institute of Management, Ossining, N. Y., in a speech to 300 shirt-sleeved delegates to the National Office Management Association convention at the Biltmore hotel.

British Advise French To Quit Invasion Coast

No Time or Place for Action Given in Evacuation Plea.

LONDON, June 8. (AP)—Britain urged the people of France today to evacuate the coastal areas from the Belgian frontier to the Pyrenees before those areas are engulfed by coming Allied operations of "capital importance."

The appeal was made in a French language broadcast by BBC, which gave no indication that any major Allied thrust was imminent but at the same time plainly implied that one was sure to come.

The Germans were reported by the Daily Sketch to have issued orders forbidding French coastal residents to leave the area, and the newspaper said they planned to hold the area against British operations.

"The coastal regions of occupied France are likely to become more and more a theater of war operations," the BBC solemnly declared. "For obvious reasons it is not possible to specify in advance either the moment or place of such operations. They will be executed at the most opportune moment and everywhere they will be useful."

"They will inevitably bring with them the gravest dangers for the civil population. Consequently, we urge all Frenchmen in the prohibited zone (the Germans had so defined the entire coastal stretch from the Belgian to the Spanish frontier) to take precautions from now on."

"The only effective precaution is to evacuate in the shortest time the prohibited coastal zones as delimited by the Germans. We do not underestimate the difficulties of such an evacuation nor the obstacles which will be presented."

"If we urge you to overcome them it is because it affects the success of operations of capital importance in the struggle for the liberation of France."

"It has been shown on several occasions that the presence of a civilian population on the scene of active operations hinders the action of the troops, and particularly of friendly troops, in a very grave manner."

"Don't wait until the last moment. It would be too late. Go away at the earliest possible moment."

British sources declined to offer any explanation of this broadcast, saying simply that it must stand for itself, but its timing appeared of double significance against the background of four recent successful Commando raids on the French coast and the current series of tremendous RAF raids.

It has been clear here that the Nazis are worried about the channel situation, and particularly the failure of their air force to regain supremacy.

Patrick Blames Defeat

On Long Absences

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP)—Representative Patrick, Democrat, Alabama, recently defeated for re-nomination, told the house today he lost because he had not been home frequently enough in the last three years and warned that other members faced defeat in coming elections.

"The voters don't realize the danger of weakening a war congress," he said. "There is danger of several good men being lost."

Making what he termed "a lame duck's report to congress," the Alabama said he believed every member who was defeated should get out and work to prevent other members being defeated.

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—

Called peace stocks in the blue chip class put on a belated rally in today's market, apparently responding to the big mid-Pacific victory over the Japanese fleet.

Hesitancy was the rule at the start and mild irregularity left trends in doubt by midday. Early in the list to celebrate the blast at the Oriental Express was a bit disappointing to Wall Street and selling dropped up after opening.

The covering operation proved to be difficult because the wanted stocks were not for sale except at wide spreads. Eastman Kodak was the first to turn hands, and with jumps of 1 to 2 points it eventually was up 7 3/4 points, closing with this gain. In most of the broad advances, however, turnover was restricted.

In addition to the Kodak sprint, 1 to 4 3/4 points, the company, Philip Morris, American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines, Union Pacific, American Telephone, Texas Company and International Harvester, J. I. Case was up 2 1/4 at a new year's high and General Motors and Pepsi-Cola made new 1942 peaks.

It was not a one-way swing, however, as steels, utilities, coppers, aircrafts and mail orders were under water the greater part of the day. Rails improved at the last.

On the upside in the curb were Gulf Oil, Humble Oil, Creole Petroleum, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and Sherwin Williams.

Prices were about unchanged on average in the bond market at the close, only a few issues attracting enough attention to move outside the narrow financial range.

That's because our bottleneck down at Panama isn't near the bottle.

Lamed Jap Fleet Looks for Refuge In Home Waters

PEARL HARBOR, June 8.—(AP)—Stung desperately by the hornets' nest it unwittingly uncovered at Midway Island, what was left of a powerful Japanese fleet sought hiding near home waters today to lick its wounds and probably prepare for another "face saving" smash at American defense in the Pacific ocean.

"How many of the enemy warships may have been able to withdraw to safer waters was not definitely known. Official reports of the battle that began last Thursday, however, said at least three warships were sunk, 11 more badly damaged and the accompanying air arm virtually wiped out.

Against this liquidation of Japanese seapower known American losses were the sinking of a destroyer, damage to an airplane carrier and destruction of some planes.

New Efforts Predicted.

Informing quarters in Washington predicted the enemy would make new and desperate efforts to break the growing air and naval strength of the United States. They either must launch new operations on the waterfront running from Alaska to Australia, these sources said, or by their inactivity

PAPER LOSES PERMIT.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP) Postmaster General Frank C. Walker today revoked the second-class mailing privileges of the X-ray, a weekly newspaper published at Muncie, Ind., on the ground that it had printed "seditious and subversive statements" in violation of espionage act of 1917.

admit eventual defeat even before the United Nations started their expected grand offensive.

Contact with the enemy was lost Saturday night, said Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet. At that time the force that launched the all-out attack on Midway appeared to be withdrawing.

The victory off Midway, ranking with the greatest in American naval history, undoubtedly brought greatly nearer the zero hour for the all-out attack against Japan by the Allied Nations. This was made certain by the crippling blows to the enemy fleet and its air arm.

Air Power Important.

As in the battle of the Coral Sea, which opened a second phase of the war in the Pacific, air power played a principal part in repelling the attempted invasion of Midway. A majority of the damage to enemy ships, official communiques have indicated, came from attacks by dive bombers and torpedo planes, supported by land-based planes.

First stage of the war fought with Japan—fought on land—ended with the fall of Java and encirclement of the Philippines. Air power made those victories possible, and the United Nations set forth to strengthen at once the areas remaining in their control.

The Coral sea battle was an indication that Allied air strength was mounting. The smashing defeat at Midway re-emphasized the growing crescendo of this power. Midway was another convincing demonstration of the superiority of American naval air force—in training, equipment, skill and daring. It also showed the co-ordination of Army and Marine Corps planes, based on Midway, with the fleet's air arm.

Northern Action Unclear.

Possibility that the enemy might launch another attack in the vital area to the north and west of Hawaii was seen in disclosures in Washington Sunday by Admiral Ernest J. Wing, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet. He linked the Midway operation with last week's bombing of Dutch Harbor, Alaska, where, he revealed, battle maneuvers of an unspecified nature still were in progress.

Messages of congratulation reached Admiral Nimitz' headquarters from various parts of the world. General Douglas MacArthur sent felicitations for himself and Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia. Lieutenant General J. L. DeWitt, commander of the western defense command and fourth army at San Francisco, sent expressions "of admiration for the gallant action by all arms."

To Lieutenant General Delos C. Emmons, commander of the Ha-

Canners Asked To Pack State's Bean Surplus

South Georgia Flooded With String Variety, Linder Says.

Declaring that the government had requested increased production of farm commodities but had not yet taken steps to move the surplus, Tom Linder, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, yesterday assumed the responsibility of finding markets for the surplus crops. By telegram Linder asked 22 Georgia canneries to advise him if they were buying beans and to quote prices.

His messages explained that the southern part of the state was flooded with string beans, and suggested, "Canners can be of the greatest help at this time by canning this surplus crop."

Linder said several replies indicated a good market for beans. One cannery announced it would be able to use five to ten thousand hampers per day for the next 30 days. Prices showed this may return between $150,000 to $300,000 to Georgia bean growers. An important Pennsylvania buyer was expected in Georgia yesterday for the purpose of surveying this state's vegetable crops and watermelon prospects.

New Weed Tumbling Eastward To Torment Hay Fever Victims

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 8. (P)—Run for cover, you hay fever sniffers, for there's a new sneeze weed rapidly moving eastward from the wild west.

It is one of the ball-like "tumble weeds" that break loose from their roots and roll with the wind across farms and pile up against barbed-wire fences. And the pollen it leaves in the air sometimes puts the lowly ragweed to shame.

Science calls it by the polite name of kochia scoparia, which seems to suggest a sneezing session, but out in Nebraska and Colorado, where in a few years it has become a common pest, they call it by many names, including fireball, burning bush and summer cypress.

Dr. Oren C. Durham, of Chicago, chief botanist for the Abbot Laboratories and an international authority on pollen, today told the American Association for Study of Allergy that this tumble weed has spread "like wild fire" in some sections.

Already the devilish weed has reached Chicago, Milwaukee, Des Moines, St. Louis, Indianapolis and Detroit, Dr. Durham reported.

It hasn't reached Cleveland yet, but that city shouldn't give up hope.

Dr. Durham said one "interesting conjecture" is whether the ambulatory weed will move down the Mississippi river from St. Louis and head eastward over the Appalachian range.

Persons sensitive to ragweed are not necessarily sensitive to the tumble weed, Dr. Durham indicated, but they might become allergic to it.

He suggested seeds of the weed were being carried to some cities in bales of hay, since Chicago and other places first noticed it around stables and stock yards.
